REVOLUTION IN FUMIGATION IS SEEN IN NEW BOX METHOD

Sweeping Changes May Be In Order As Result of Harper Man's Invention

SEVERAL MONTHS OF TRIAL ALREADY GIVEN

Practical For Small Trees, County Horticultural Commissioner's View

N. O. Mellott of Fairview Farms has developed a box for the fumigation of trees that may revolutionize the methods of fumigation now in use and that may greatly reduce the cost of fumigation.

County Horticultural Commissioner R. K. Bishop stated today that he believes that Mellott's method will prove practicable for small trees. Its future, however, rests upon demonstrations still to be made.

At the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at the Balboa Palisades last night, J. H. Evans, who has been working with Mellott in the development of the method, stated confidently that the method solved many difficulties, that it allows fumigation in day time, that it takes but a small fraction of the cyanide used under tents, that it is more thorough than the tent method and is generally more satisfactory.

House Around Tree
Evans stated that Mellott builds a kind of house around a tree. This house is in sections that can be quickly altered and can be moved from tree to tree just as easily as the tents are moved. Each section has a wooden frame and is covered with roofing paper. The structure is air-tight, and the efficiency of the thing is in the fact that no gas escapes. Because of that fact, an ounce of cyanide will do the work under a tree that under tent takes three ounces.

"We have been trying out this method for months at Fairview Farms," said Evans. "County Horticultural Commissioner Bishop and an investigator from the citrus experimental station did some work with them, and used only an ounce of cyanide where ordinarily two or three would have been used. They got splendid results. Fumigation by this method kills not only the scale but also the black scale eggs. I fumigated my trees in day-time. On one tree I left the box on the tree two hours, and the tree was not burned."

Evans invited any person interested to go to his place and have a demonstration.

Bishop's Statement
When asked today concerning Mellott's method, County Horticultural Commissioner Bishop said:

"I am satisfied that the method is practicable for small trees. I understand that some of the men at the citrus experimental station at Riverside say that the method is not practicable. Mellott and Evans think it is practicable for large trees, too, but that remains to be demonstrated. At least, it has not been demonstrated to my satisfaction."

"The efficiency of the method lies in the no-leakage of gas. If the house leaks it will cause trouble, just as a leaky tent causes trouble. The use of the house in daytime rests entirely upon whether or not the house is light-proof. In the early days when we were experimenting here with fumigation we tried to make tents that would be light-proof. Hydrocyanic gas is disorganized by light into gaseous organization that burns the trees. At first we painted our tents black, and tried them. Still the trees burned. Then we added more and more paint until the tents were as thick as sole leather, and still the trees burned. Then someone suggested fumigating at night, and we have been fumigating at night ever since."

"I am expecting soon to conduct some further experiments to see if the method will kill black scale eggs, and I want to try it out on purple scale. We have always known that by preventing leakage the amount of cyanide used could be reduced. If Mellott's housing method proves practicable for fumigation of orchards on a commercial scale, it will be of considerable consequence."

STRIKE SITUATION UNCHANGED
BISBER, Ariz., June 25.—The strike situation today is at a standstill. There are no new developments.

NO N. Y. POLICEMEN INVOLVED BY COCCHI IN HIS CONFESSION

Brother-in-law of Murderer's Wife Sheds Most Light During Probe

BOLOGNA, Italy, June 28.—AFredro Cocchi has involved no New York politicians or policemen in any part of his dispirited confession of the murder of Ruth Cruger, it developed here today.

This and other facts came to light when officials, relatives and friends of the Cocchi's were questioned.

Cocchi refused flatly to discuss the priest, Moretto. He has mentioned no accomplice and insists the murder of Ruth Cruger was his first crime.

The magistrate in charge today finished the interrogation of other witnesses and will question Cocchi himself further concerning his crime before setting a date for trial. The court also announced its intention of awaiting results of investigations of the crime now being conducted by the New York authorities.

M. Baroncini, a brother-in-law of the murderer's wife, shed most light during examination. Maroncini disclosed that Cocchi is a degenerate by heredity. His own father was forced to leave New York some time between 1913 and 1915 after attempting violence on his son's wife.

LODGE BATTLES SENATE'S 'DRY' AMENDMENT

Solon Urges Ban On Distilled Spirits, But Not On Wines, Beers

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Senator Lodge this afternoon opened an attack on the dry amendment as adopted by the Senate Agriculture committee to the Administration Food Control bill. He urged that in its stead be substituted legislation preventing further manufacture of distilled spirits and commanding all spirits in bond but he would permit the further manufacture of beers and wines.

BY ROBERT J. BENDER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Beers and wines began their battle for life on the Senate floor today. Their whisky ally is already definitely vanquished by an overwhelming vote.

Food control itself temporarily has been lost sight of amid the prohibition battle.

With the outcome uncertain, hope of food control by July 1st has been abandoned. Opposition to the bill itself has almost entirely vanished, but in its place has sprung up violent antagonism to its amendment.

Sensors who would favor the food control bill will vote against it on account of the liquor clause. Many who oppose prohibition under guise of food control legislation now will attack the measure. Others will assail the dry amendment prohibiting beer and liquor manufacture, but placing the life of wines in the President's hands, as "discriminatory."

"Must needs of Illinois paint the picture," Senator Lewis of Illinois said, "of the rich youth seated at a table with fine champagne and a lady, and the young man fills the slipper of his paramour and lifts it to his lips, while outside the laboring man finds it impossible to have his glass of beer?"

Were it not for the strong "war drought" sentiment, it is probable the "wets" would attempt to "laugh" the prohibition amendment to the food bill off the measure. As it is, they are rallying amendments of every scope and description, some of which will prohibit candy, chewing gum and other luxuries on the same grounds as liquor and beers—because they are luxuries manufactured from food-stuffs.

The battle beginning today promises to be at once spectacular, violent and extremely funny. But behind it all the food control bill is threatened with prolonged idleness and its ultimate passage before the early harvests hopeless.

DETECTIVE SHOT DOWN IN DARK BY MEXICAN DESPERADO

Man Whose Activities Caused Crooks to Be Brought to Justice Murdered

They got him. Jose Cruz was murdered last night by a man who shot him from behind. Long a marked man, he fell to the bullet of an enemy. Joe, game to the end and absolutely fearless, even as he was falling dead, reached for his revolver hoping to give battle to his cowardly assailant.

With the slaying of Jose Cruz goes a Mexican known to every officer in Orange county, a man who has been of great assistance in the enforcement of law among Mexicans.

The killing of Jose was predicted many times. Even yesterday he was warned by Deputy District Attorney A. E. Koepsel to be careful lest he be murdered. Jose laughed.

"If they get me they'll have to get me from behind," said he.

First Known in 1911
Jose Cruz first became known to the officers of the county in 1911 when he was the principal witness against Tiburcio Cabello, accused of murdering two men in a gambling row at Los Alamitos. For killing Miguel Gonzalez, Cabello was sentenced on August 18, 1911, to ten years in San Quentin.

It was known that during the trial, Cruz was threatened with death if he told the truth. In spite of threats, he held to his story, which had led Sam Jernigan and Robert Squires to arrest Cabello.

Word was received that Cruz was a marked man. But a few weeks later a man with drawn knife attacked him. Cruz shot him in the leg. A few weeks after that at Placentia a man entered Cruz's tent with the intention of killing him. At least, Jose so thought, and Jose opened fire. The assailant fell with a broken leg.

Used as Detective
Cruz was used frequently as a detective and informant. He has been a witness in blind pig cases. Officers found that he could be relied upon absolutely. Three or four years ago he moved to Dyer, and troublesome Mexicans found that Cruz kept the sheriff's office informed concerning them. Threats were made. Cruz was drawn into frequent brawls, but he was as wary as a wildcat, and knew the value of a loaded revolver. While he was not a deputy sheriff, for it was a permit to carry a gun, for it was a known fact that he had been threatened. In the last few months Cruz has reported that he has seen men hiding behind fences. On each occasion, Cruz took the middle of the road, and with his revolver in his hand faced the one in hiding. He was prepared to fight it out with any man who dared to open fire on him.

The End Is Reached
Cruz assumed somewhat the role of city marshal of the Dyer-Dehli section. His services as an informant were always open to the officers.

He lived in a one-room house on a lot owned by him, about four blocks east of Main street. How he came to be killed can only be surmised.

Last night about 9 o'clock three shots were heard. They came in quick succession from a point on Halladay street, about twenty yards south of Center street. Persons living in the vicinity heard directly afterward the footsteps of one man running south. There was no outcry. Four or five minutes later a buggy drove rapidly by.

Then all was quiet. This morning about 5:30 o'clock the dead body of the "Delhi policeman" was found in the middle of the road. There was but one bullet wound upon him. The bullet entered the base of the neck at the back and ranged directly forward, breaking the jaw. Death was almost instantaneous.

Cruz lay upon his face. One arm was under him, and the fingers clutched the handle of the revolver that had not been drawn from the holster. Had no Warning
Undoubtedly Cruz had no warning. Had he had but a fraction of a second's notice he would have been facing his assailant. The only hiding place for one who might have waylaid him was twenty feet away behind some garden fences at the edge of the lot.

U. S. ARMY AVIATOR SEES SERVICE FLYING OVER GERMANS' LINES

Major Mitchell Has Distinction of Being First American Officer in Action

PARIS, June 28.—James Hall of Boston, an American aviator with the Lafayette escadrille, was killed in an air fight with seven German machines, according to reports received today from the front.

Hall made his first flight Sunday. That day he courageously attacked a German warplane at a point blank range of twenty yards.

The German struck back and Hall fell 1000 yards, but righted his plane and landed safely.

There are no details of the encounter in which he lost his life. It is unknown if he is James Norman Hall of Colfax, Iowa, author of "Kitchener's Mob."

PARIS, June 28.—An American army aviator has been in active service, flying over German lines at Verdun and elsewhere during the past week. He is Major Mitchell. The announcement was made at American army headquarters today.

Major Mitchell was one of the first regular army officers to reach France after the United States war declaration. Two weeks ago he started a tour of the various French flying squadrons and was recently reported with the Americans in the Lafayette squadron.

He has the distinction of being the first American regular army officer to "get into action" on the Western front in the air. Presumably he acted as observer with a French army officer as pilot.

HUBBY'S WOODEN LEG USED ON WIFE, CHARGE

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—Marie Collins, wife of Fred Collins, a local tailor, was so anxious to get rid of her husband that she put up $6 in the police court to pay his way out of town.

Mrs. Collins had her husband, who has a wooden leg, arrested for disturbing the peace. She said he was in the habit of hitting her on the head with the artificial limb.

Mrs. Collins told the judge she had endured her husband for fourteen years and had decided finally to break off diplomatic relations. "And I'm going to get a divorce with my first month's pay," she added.

ATTEMPTS MADE TO FLOAT OLYMPIA FAIR

NEWPORT, R. I., June 28.—Admiral Dewey's flagship, the Olympia, is still aground today. Her stores, munitions and fittings have all been taken off in an effort to ease the strain and make it easier to float her, but up to early today every attempt has met with little success.

The next high tide, when it is expected another attempt will be made to float her, will be at 5:47 p. m.

COUNCILS OF DEFENSE IN STATE URGED TO BOOST ENLISTMENTS

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—With only three more days of Recruiting Week left and only about one-third of California's quota of enlistments secured for the regular army, the State Council of Defense today called upon all County Councils to redouble their energy.

Available reports show that only about 1000 men have enlisted here out of California's allotment of 3000.

Enlist now!
Each day brings the draft nearer.
Each day shortens the time in which a man may choose for himself that branch of the army service most to his liking. For, the draft once begun, the recruit will have no option in the matter; he will go where he is assigned.

Don't allow California to fall down in recruiting. California, YOUR state, did its share toward the oversubscription of the Liberty Loan and the Red Cross Fund. Now it is up to you, patriots of Santa Ana and Orange County, to see that, by enlisting, California furnishes its share of volunteers for the army.

Americans, enlist!

MARINES FIRST TO LAND UPON FRENCH SOIL. IS BELIEF

Landing of American Troops Expected to Give Recruiting a Big Boost

AN ATLANTIC PORT, June 28.—Whether official announcement of the landing of American troops in France will show that the marines under Colonel Doyen were actually the first men to set foot on French soil, was a subject of lively speculation at Marine headquarters and recruiting stations here today.

The marines still at home believe it will be found that Doyen's 2700 men representing Uncle Sam's "first to fight" forces held to their tradition, and were first ashore.

The landing of the American troops was expected to give recruiting a decided boost. Bands were blaring, flags flying and recruiting sergeants were going strong here today.

Recruiting Efforts Speeded
In contrast to the quiet slipping away of the men now near the firing line, the efforts to bring more men into the service were redoubled today with all the enthusiasm and noise possible. Few knew when the transports and their convoys slipped from this port under cover of night and started on their voyage for the front.

For days men had been pouring in by the railways. They lounged around railway yards, waiting to be placed aboard their transports which were piled high with supplies and equipment. Naval officers and men went about their work quietly. Seeing Pershing's troops safely across the Atlantic was looked upon as one of the most serious missions the American navy had ever undertaken. But the navy was ready.

No "Send-off"
There was no "send-off" for the troops and jacksies. Nor will there be for others to follow them. War has changed since the days of the skirmish with Spain, when troops marched away with drums beating and flags flying to herald their departure. Late one day transports and convoys could be seen. And the next morning they were gone. That is all that marked the departure of the first Americans to land on European soil to fight under the flag.

FINDS QUINTESSENCE OF IGNORANCE IN L. A.

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—A Federal building employee says he has found what he terms the "quintessence of ignorance." It is the Scotchman who took out his naturalization papers because he wanted to escape the draft for military service in his native land.

CENTRAL POWERS FEAR RUSS AID IN ALLIED JOINT DRIVE IS NEAR

Austrian Divisions Speeded East From Italian Front Advices Assert

ROME, June 28.—The Central powers are beginning to fear that Russia will soon be an active participant in the allies' plans of joint offensive operations.

Word received from the front today asserted that there were evidences there that a considerable number of Austrian divisions had been hurriedly withdrawn from the Italian front and transferred back north. Many of these troops were the troops which were shifted from the northern fighting line at the height of General Cadorna's offensive to stiffen the weakening enemy front.

At that time the Central powers were confident of success of their separate peace plot against Russia and had practically stopped all fighting on the Russian front by deliberately schemed fraternization with the soldiers opposing them.

CANADIANS TAKE NEW TOWN IN LENS SMASH

Coal City Practically Encircled On Three Sides By Haig Forces

LONDON, June 28.—Reduced to the necessity of fighting from the ruins of the burned city, their powerful trenches outside the town captured, the Germans' position in Lens was extremely critical this afternoon when the British made fresh advances.

The Germans blew up a bridge leading into Lens from the outskirts of Avion, now in full possession of the British in an attempt to halt the English advance.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, June 28.—Canadian troops today occupied the town of Elou Dit Leauvette, one-half mile southwest of Lens.

Their patrols shoved ahead of the village, penetrated even further toward the coal metropolis of France.

This is the nearest the British have yet come to the city of Lens proper. Mention of patrols pushing still further on, indicates a general retreat by the Germans and abandonment of their positions under the tremendous strong constricting pressure which the British have been applying to the city.

Elou Dit Leauvette is located half a mile beyond Lievin, where some time ago the Germans made a desperate stand against the British advance. Avion, where the Canadians last week made some brilliant advances, is about three quarters of a mile due south of Lens and about the same distance southeast of Elou Dit Leauvette.

Lens is practically encircled on three sides now.

GUN DUELS SUCCEED INFANTRY ACTIONS ON FRENCH FRONT

PARIS, June 28.—A violent artillery engagement succeeded the infantry fighting in the Hurtubise and Cornillet sectors of the French front, according to the official statement. A German attack directed against the Wattwiller salient failed. A number of the enemy were killed.

U. S. SEA TRAIL TO FRONT IS LONGEST AND MOST PERILOUS

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Communication lines for the American army in France are the longest and most troublesome military men have encountered. A 3000 mile trail across the trackless ocean must be kept open for transportation of men and supplies. The only lines comparing at all with the present ones were those in the Boer war or the Philippine insurrection, but they afforded no special problem inasmuch as no submarines then swarmed the deep. Heavy patrolling will be necessary to keep the communication lines safe and this will require a heavy system of patrolling.

Across this 3000 mile trail America will send her hundreds of thousands of men, her munitions and her tremendous food supplies for the army.

BY CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 28.—General Pershing's men in khaki will be augmented as fast as possible by other trained troops. This was as far as officials at the War Department would go today in discussing future plans, now that American soldiers are safely on French soil. Censorship and safety provisions forbade that there be any details at this time.

However, it transgresses no rules to indicate that national guardsmen are likely to be in the units sent abroad ahead of the new national army. No one here believes this new army can be moulded into fighting form before next spring, at the earliest.

Meantime, other fighting forces seasoned by service in this country, in Mexico, Haiti, Santa Domingo or the Philippines, will take their places in the trenches of France, ready and eager for their part in overwhelming Germany.

Safe Arrival Marks Epoch
Safe arrival of the Pershing forces marks an epoch in army and navy history. It was a tremendous task in which untiring men of both services had a brilliant part.

When the word for Pershing's expedition to go abroad was given, the general was studiously mapping out the preliminaries. Behind barred doors in a tiny office, he and his seasoned campaigners mapped out the tremendous task of transport.

For a time it well nigh staggered them. Ships were short. Submarines were plentiful and alert. To do what, send all the divisions safely across and transfer sufficient supplies was the problem. In accomplishing this, the navy played an able part. Grey sea dogs watched the transports when they put out from an American port and kept a grim vigil in the days before they touched a French port. A single secret message in the War Department related their arrival. It announced only that Pershing's men had ridden the seas safely.

Spells Tremendous Thing
But to Washington and the nation this brief message, still withheld early this forenoon for military reasons, spelled a tremendous thing—America's actual physical entrance into European trenches, the primary part of her bid to shatter German plans for a world domination. Army authorities anticipated that full details of the

Under the Sign of the Red Cross in France.

The Red Cross in France, with Aid of the American Red Cross, Has Helped Send These Departing Men Back to the Trenches with Smiling Hearts.

By Marian Bonsall Davis.

As a volunteer in France Mrs. Davis got vivid impressions of the part America's great humanitarian agency has played and is to play in the world war.

In the money that is pouring out to meet the demand of the American Red Cross for $100,000,000 there are memories, devotion, tributes.

The sign of the Red Cross, to one who has worked under it, calls up countless images. Sometimes it is old shoes—shoes so old that they let in the mud and water of the trenches. The owners, coming in on stretchers and in stockings feet, guard them protectively, thinking they must do duty again. How many processions there are of pale faces and old shoes!

Sometimes an image that comes to one woman is a giant negro, John Brown, from Texas, whom she found in a French hospital. John Brown had come over to France as a groom to several hundred cavalry horses. Arrived there, he said he thought "it was up to him to do his bit." He joined the Foreign Legion, fought bravely and was severely wounded.

Very often the image is of a patriotic woman, wearing the Red Cross on her arm, performing the humblest services for other privates carrying their poor shoes; for other negroes sharing the agony of the fight—the Cingaleses.

The Red Cross flag flying from the schoolhouse that is now a hospital in the main street of the village that looks so sound asleep without its men; the emblem on the arm of a surgeon working miracles of science on shattered bodies; that red badge on the cases of relief supplies unloaded at the docks, on the sides of the motor ambulances, over the canopies where homeless soldiers may sleep, over the shelter for children—the sign multiplies into a myriad banners.

The Red Crosses are there, and will be there in greater numbers, because little children have emptied precious pennies from their savings banks, young school girls gone without their treats, young boys given money hard earned, men and women given generously and thoughtfully.

In every civilized country now men and women and children are pouring out gifts of money and service to the Red Cross. In every civilized country the ones at home look up to it with comfort and with hope, and daily growing devotion, as the young men go out to fight.

EW HAVEN TO DROP CHAIR CARS, DINERS

BRIDGEPORT, June 28.—All par cars and diners on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road will be discontinued, it was announced here. Through the elimination of its parlor and dining cars the road hopes to concentrate its running costs, releasing locomotives for hauling freight and troops.

Parlor cars carry only thirty-two persons each and day coaches eighty. Some of the latter exclusively will help save coal. "Twenty minutes for freshment" stops will be made.

ETROITER, RELATIVE OF KAISER, REGISTERS

DETROIT, June 28.—Johann Wilhelm, nephew of the Kaiser, would keep up the gun against Germany—if a limit of selective service were used to include him.

Count von Hohenzollern is his title. He was born in Detroit and has been here for the last seven years.

The Count's identity was discovered when he applied to Marshall Belmont for permission to enter the districts restricted to Germans.

While he spent the greater part of his forty-seven years in Germany, he was born here while his parents were touring the United States. His father is a brother of Bill Hohenzollern.

SENTENCE BOY TRUANT TO PLANT AN ACRE

NEW YORK, June 28.—Warren Manny, aged sixteen, of Ladtown, near Highland Falls, has been sentenced, it became known in Bradford, to plant an acre of ground and paroled in the custody of a minister who will operate the plow for him.

Young Manny played truant so much his mother, Mrs. Dwight Manny of Ladtown, turned him over recently to her brother, William Macbean of Bradford, to educate. He refused to go to school or to work. When haled before Police Judge Barden, young Manny was ordered to plant his uncle's garden or run the risk of reformatory sentence. When he pleaded that he knew nothing of plowing the Rev. David Russell of Bradford, offered to run the plow for him, so he was placed on probation to report to the minister every morning at 9 o'clock to receive instructions in farming.

SCREENS HIS COTTON AGAINST BOLL WEEVIL

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 28.—A. J. Strickland of Valdosta, has given a contract to Ed Hinson for a new idea in the matter of protecting cotton from the boll weevil. He is to have a field of ten acres enclosed in a seven-foot screen fence, guaranteed to stand ten years, at a cost of $3,000.

Strickland says it is an experiment but he hopes that it will prove successful. He is of the belief that the weevils do not fly very high and that a seven-foot screen will keep practically all of them out of the field. He believes that if the weevils can be kept out he can make a fine cotton crop on the ten acres and will be well repaid for his expense.

He figures that on a small field the screen may prove of value, but does not believe that a large field would be protected so well. The fence will be put up at once.

FINDS SON'S BODY AS ARMY ADVANCES

LONDON, June 28.—A tragic story of how a father found his son's grave on the battlefield in northern France has just reached London. Late in March Captain Eldred Wolferstan Bowyer-Bower, of the British air corps, went up to make a reconnaissance. Eyewitnesses said he had flown about five or six miles behind the Hindenburg line when he was attacked by six German flyers. The Englishman's machine was seen to fall and nothing more was heard of him.

The British advance came weeks later. In the vanguard was a detachment of Royal Engineers, which included the missing airman's father, Captain T. Bowyer-Bower. The father heard that not far away was a grave marked by a cross made from pieces of a wrecked aeroplane, which bore in pencil the words: "Two unknown captains of the flying corps." Knowing that his son had been brought down close by he determined to inspect the grave. The number on the remains of the aeroplane convinced him that his son lay buried there. And stuck on to the primitive cross with a piece of mud was the tag of a tunic bearing the name of the London tailor who had made his son's uniform.

Permission was obtained to exhume the body, and the son. The bodies were removed to a cemetery a few miles away, and while they were being placed in coffins the Germans shelled and sniped the men engaged in the task.

To save shins and furniture and needless profanity, an electrical manufacturing company has perfected a light switch that glows in the dark. The effect is secured by the inclusion of a very minute quantity of a radium compound in one of the screws of the switch.

FIVE SONS IN WAR, ALL DO THEIR BITS

PITTSBURG, June 28.—Because their five boys, an adopted son, three daughters, a dozen nephews and two aunts, together with themselves, are "doing their bit" in the war for democracy against Germany and her allies, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Malins of Aliquippa, near here, declare that they are one of the happiest couples in the United States.

The lads are serving in varied capacities and all are making good. T. W. Malins, the oldest son, is a sergeant major in the Australian message corps; F. A. Malins is a petty officer on the British warship Giorgi; Sergeant Albert Malins is a member of the Tenth Middlesex regiment; Lieutenant Arthur Malins is a war correspondent and cinema operator of some note in England, indeed one of the national heroes; E. J. Malins is a lance corporal in the military foot police; Fred Pennell, the adopted son, is chief policeman on H. M. S. Hibernia.

The mother and daughters make weekly trips to local Red Cross headquarters to roll bandages. Miss Florence Malins, the eldest daughter, is an expert in this line, having taken a seven year course in England as a member of the St. Johns First Aid to the Injured association at Weymouth.

NO SIMPLE TEST FOR MUSHROOMS, SAYS U. S.

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Inexpert persons who insist on collecting "mushrooms" and afterward die of regret—and poison—on learning they had picked the poisonous kind, are warned by the Department of Agriculture that there is no simple test for distinguishing the eatable from the other.

For example, the common belief that any mushroom may be eaten with safety if the skin can be peeled readily from the cap is unfounded. The same peeling is possible with many poisonous species.

The presence of insects on mushrooms, too, is no proof they are safe for human consumption. The common belief that if mushrooms are soaked or boiled in salt water they will do no harm, also is a dangerous and unfounded supposition.

MOBBED FOR CONTEMPT TO FRENCH ANTHEM

BOSTON, June 28.—John Todd, 28, member of the crew of the coast steamer City of Rockland, was mobbed on Boston common for putting his hat on his head while a recruiting band was playing the "Marseillaise." He was pursued down Tremont and School streets and repeatedly struck.

Shield guardsmen and police tried to shield him from the mob. Finally he was rescued by being hurried into a police station.

TWINS IN UNIFORM SISTER WAR NURSE

HAVERSTRAW, June 28.—Thomas Weyant, aged 28, of Southfields, Rockland county, following the example of his twin brother, Howard Weyant of Livingston Manor, has enlisted in the United States navy, making the fourth of his family to go to the war.

Chester Weyant, aged 25, is a sergeant in a Canadian infantry battalion which has been fighting in France six months. Miss Vera Weyant of Livingston Manor, who is a sister of the twins, joined the American Red Cross a year ago and is a war nurse in France.

In the first three months this year the United States consumed 3,652,907 pounds of cotton fiber in the manufacture of explosives.

Pre-Inventory Sale

—The importance of this Pre-Inventory Sale cannot be too strongly urged upon the buying public.

—In ten days we shall be taking account of our stock. No merchant wants to take an inventory with a lot of broken lines of goods on hand. He must dispose of them, no matter how much he must cut prices. And this is precisely what we propose to do. We are forced to make sweeping reductions, and we make them unhesitatingly.

—We are going to make a complete clearance within ten days—no matter what it costs. While we offer you an unusual saving opportunity, this sale also has advantages for us—in that we dispose of all broken lines—odds and ends that have accumulated during a busy season.

—Read every item carefully—the reductions are very large, indeed.

U. S. WAR CHIEFS TO SEND MORE SOLDIERS AS RAPIDLY AS POSSIBLE

journey would be available before night. They did not sanction the original publication of the arrival news from here yesterday afternoon.

Major General Sibert, in charge of the first troops, is an old campaigner who has seen service in Cuba, Philippines and China, as a member of the engineers. Fifty years old, he retains a punch. He is a regular fighting man and an able leader.

And another man—Admiral Cleaves, quiet, suave navy commander, deserves a meed of praise for his able handling of the convoys for the transports.

Just what these ships were is withheld. Just how they mobilized and how they journeyed unscathed is known, but shielded.

What units compose the first American expedition, too, is a military secret for the moment, though probably details will be announced in the forthcoming statement of the War Department.

JACKIES FROM U. S. TROOP SHIPS FETED IN PARIS

PARIS, June 28.—Paris was flooded with American naval officers and blue-jackets today—men from ships that accompanied the American expeditionary army on its voyage to France. They were feted and cheered and petted by adoring crowds everywhere they went.

Some of the men were granted four full days' leave.

GENERAL SIBERT ONCE HEAD OF WESTERN DEPARTMENT

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Major General William L. Sibert, who commands under Major General Pershing's direction, the American troops already in France, was in temporary command of the Western department of the army, with headquarters here, after the departure of Major General J. Franklin Bell to New York.

For two years he commanded the Pacific coast artillery district, following his return from Panama where he built the Gatun locks of the Panama Canal. Just before his departure for France he was promoted to the rank of major general. On June 6 last he was quietly married in Pittsburgh to Miss Juliet Roberts.

LISBON THRILLED BY PORTUGUESE WAR FEAT

LISBON, June 28.—A wave of tremendous enthusiasm swept over parliament today when formal announcement was made that a battalion of Portuguese troops "somewhere on the fighting line in France" had destroyed a German patrol and taken a number of prisoners.

The Portuguese troops' exploit was formally announced by Field Marshal Haig Saturday.

U. C. SAVANT IN WAR, WOMAN REPLACES HIM

BERKELEY, June 28.—The University of California has announced its first instance of a woman replacing a man who has gone to war.

Miss Jane Gay Dodge, instructor in English at Vassar, is appearing at the summer school session of the university as an English lecturer, in the place of Roswell G. Ham, who has gone to France. Ham is a member of the ambulance unit organized by the Intercollegiate Intelligence Bureau.

BOY BREAKS JAIL AT FULLERTON, BUT IS CAUGHT AT THE TRAIN

Youngster Springs Catch, Climbs Wall, Tears Out Lattice Work and Goes

FULLERTON, June 28.—Thomas Bond is only 10 years old but he is a runaway and a jail-breaker.

He arrived here yesterday and City Marshal French concluded that the youngster was a runaway. He put the child in jail, and notified the Los Angeles police that he was under lock and key.

The Los Angeles officers were looking for the boy, and this morning the youngster's father, Thomas G. Bond of Los Angeles arrived. An hour previous to that time the marshal had fed the boy his breakfast. Bond and the marshal went to the jail.

It was empty. The boy had worked the lock of the cell, climbed the side of the building, tore out some lattice work, and let himself down to the ground with a rope that he had secreted or had been thrown by someone from outside.

The boy was caught a few minutes later as he was trying to board a freight train out of town. His father returned with him to Los Angeles.

DETECTIVE SHOT DOWN BY A DESPERADO

Coroner Winbiger removed the body this morning.

Sheriff Jackson and Under Sheriff Iman made careful inquiry among the Mexicans of the little vicinity this morning, but they got no clues. Everywhere there was profound ignorance of the shooting. Some shots were heard, some footsteps of a man running away from the spot, the sound of a buggy—and there information was at an end.

Jose Cruz came to the United States from a place ten miles from Guadalajara, Mexico, fourteen years ago. He was 40 years old, unmarried, and leaves a mother and three sisters near Guadalajara.

Jose's father was a famous captain of rurales in the Guadalajara section. For years he was a terror of bandits. On one occasion he went alone into the mountains after a gang of ten horse thieves. He killed six of them and brought back four.

From that day he was a marked man, and like his son he met a violent death. Just as Jose was shot down from behind, so went his father before him.

Left a Will
Jose left property worth $300 or $400. He made a will recently, appointing M. A. Cain as executor. The property is to go to his mother and sisters.

Jose Cruz was killed for revenge, not robbery. Yesterday he cashed a check for $62. Of that over $60 was found in a pocket of his trousers when he was searched at the morgue this morning.

"He was a very useful man in his sphere," declared Sheriff Jackson.

L. A. MAN LOSES MINE, MONEY AND MARRIAGE

SAN BERNARDINO, June 28.—Rather dolefully, albeit in legal phraseology, H. M. Elliott, wealthy mining man of Los Angeles, sets forth in a suit on file here today that he "lost" his "mine, money and marriage, too." He names as the medium of his sorrow Winifred E. Nelson. After a three-year courtship, Elliott avers, Mrs. Nelson promised to marry him, whereupon, at her solicitation, he decided her a two-thirds interest in his mine "and money." Then she jilted him, he alleges. She enters a denial. "I never promised to marry him," she returned. "I wasn't free to."

CAR SHORTAGE HALTS CANTALOUPE SHIPPING

BRAWLEY, Cal., June 28.—Freight car shortage in the Imperial Valley, greatest cantaloupe producing district in the world, has caused a serious restriction in the shipping of the fruit, now at its height here. Curtailment of shipments that usually run 250 to 300 carloads a day was reported today as only 160. The last shipment prior to the shortage of cars today was 253 cars.

SMILELESS WOMAN IN L. A. COMMITS SUICIDE

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—She was known as the "Little Woman-Who-Never-Smiled," though her name was Selma Pierson. And her rather quaint philosophy of life was that "when a woman is around the forty mark she is useless." So when one morning she failed to come down to breakfast the other boarders feared the worst. An officer came and forced in the door to her room. Her body was found hanging by a stocking, from the bedpost. There was semblance of a smile—the first that had ever been seen. She left a letter addressed to Mrs. N. E. Litzenberg, El Cajon, Cal.

GENERAL SCOTT MEETS BRUSILOFF AT FRONT

PETROGRAD, June 28.—Major General Hugh L. Scott, chief military member of the American mission, was at the front in Russia today, visiting General Brusiloff's headquarters.

FASHION LETTER

BY MARGARET MASON

(Written for the United Press)

In satin she's lovely.

She's dainty in lace.

She's stately in velvet.

And wears it with grace.

In serge she is swagger,

In linen she's smart,

In trilly white muslin

She's queen of my heart.

In Georgette crepe or organdie in lace frock a la lingerie the summer girl's a sight to see and just as sweet as she can be.

In voile, batiste or muslin pink she makes all eyes admire and blink and when she dons a gingham gown she's quite the smartest thing in town.

For gingham plaid in divers hue is quite the newest of the new frocks that stand "Aye there's the rub" in any "washer lady's" tub.

A stunning one of yellow plaid has chic suspenders just like Dad with blouse of organdie to show beneath the galluses you know.

Another plaid of white and green displays a most seductive mein with loose coat blouse and white array of cuffs and collar of pique.

A patent leather belt of black it has and buttons down the back.

A dashing gingham, mauve and white, has deep hip pockets, left and right, and joins a blouse of organdie with buttoned belt quite childishly.

The bell sleeves of the blouse are bound with plaid bands of the gingham round while just to balance things a bit each dashing pocket's flaring slit that makes the skirt so smart you see is lined well with the organdie.

Just think with what consummate art now maids an air naive impart to these new frocks whose fabrics show the fancies of the long ago when the maidens sighed and clung and waited and only lived that they be mated. Book muslin, yes, and dimity it sure takes art you will agree for females erudite today to wear these frocks and get away with it sufficiently to look like cuts from "Godey's Ladies' Book." That fashion book of long ago the grandama of "Vogue" you know.

A darling dimity in blue would look just awfully sweet on you with all its tiny tucks and frills dissecting it in little rills. Its sleeves are short to the elbow and pockets frilled on each hip show. They are the only modern touch. The low neck's round in manner Dutch.

The linen sheer that people use for handkerchiefs now all do choose for summer frocks of dainty hue pink, maize, rose, lavender and blue. This fabric rare makes lovely clothes where once 'twas subject but to blows.

A summer facie always right is Crepe Georgette, so sheer and light. For every type and every age in any color it's the rage. A gown of it in snowy white embroidered is in worsteds bright. It has a loose coat blouse of course so it is girdled round the torso in plated strands of worsted gay with tassled ends that gently sway.

And then there's voile a perfect foil for summer beauty naught can spoil. In all white voile is very sweet its skirt with clustered tucks replete. A frill edged surplice trims the waist the sleeves with soft wrist frills are graced.

But quite the favorite of the day is organdie in every way. Its old-time charm rejuvenated it's far from being antiquated. So crisp and cool and thin and quaint alike to sinner and to saint it lends such misty charm or other you cannot tell the one from 'tother. Advertisers naturally are all quite strong for organdie since thus attired they hope to win old men retired with lots of tin who think all girls in organdie sweet, innocent young things must be.

One organdie that is a dream is trimmed in bands of lace, deep cream. The organdie itself is white, the skirt is full and short, oh, quite! Two wide bands of the lace bisect it. Its flowing sleeves, you may suspect it, are also edged with bands of laced fold of organdie with grace outlines the V-shaped decollete and at the belt there is a spray of golden-centered marguerites.

For daintiness this frock quite beats most of the others now on view. I'd like to buy it, wouldn't you? But then I really feel that way about all now on display. Voile, muslin, crash or dimity, thin linen, Georgette, organdie or gingham in its plaidity. But quite the best that I can do is just to write myself a few.

TRENCH TALES

"It was easy taking the first lines" a Welsh infantryman was explaining his wound. "We only had to follow the barrage. Then when we were consolidating the second line, the Germans put in a good, heavy barrage, big stuff, and they came bombing down the trench. It was well and I got hit, and our boys had to go back—the Germans were much too strong—five to six to one. Yes, I was left behind. I'd got it in the hip and the arm you see. A German stretcher-bearer bound up my arm with my field-dressing, but he did nothing for my hip. I couldn't turn around on the ground, maybe that was it. They left me alone, though some of them passing scowled at me when I asked for a drink of water. I was very lucky for they left me lying where I was. I lay for the night and in the morning our boys took the trench and stuck it this time. I was carried back to the clearing station."

Waterproof fabric has been invented by a Frenchman, who has discovered a way to extract the brittleness from thin slices of cork, which then are glued to cloth.

Where high-power electric transmission lines cross highways in Norway, networks of wire are erected to protect persons using the roads should the heavily charged wires break and fall.

CRUDE OIL ADVANCES 10 CENTS IN STATE

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Crude oil has advanced ten cents a barrel in California in the last twenty-four hours.

An increase which makes the lowest grade oil sell for 89 cents a barrel was made effective today by the Standard Oil Company. Other companies will adopt the same schedule. It is the second raise in a month.

$26,000 OFFERED TO BURN DOWN COLLEGE

POMONA, June 28.—Twenty thousand dollars has been offered S. J. Miller, president of Lordsburg college, by a motion picture company for the privilege of burning the college buildings to the ground and "taking" the spectacle. A finance campaign to raise funds for new buildings is under way and the trustees will probably consider the offer.

While a steel tube is stronger and more rigid than a bar of the same metal of equal weight, a French scientist has demonstrated that a tube is more flexible than a bar of the same exterior dimensions.

A power operated machine has been invented which can be adjusted to wrap packages of various sizes rapidly and uniformly and apply paste to the wrappers if desired.

FOOD SAVING DAY

Sunday, July 1, will be "Food Saving Day" in the churches. Herbert Hoover, national food administrator, has written to the ministers of more than 200,000 churches throughout the United States, asking them to co-operate with him and the Department of Agriculture in urging the people to increase the production of food and cut down the waste. He estimates that ordinarily there is a food waste in this country of $1,000,000,000 a year.

"As a minister of God," Mr. Hoover writes in his communication to the clergy, "as a leader of the people and a lover of liberty and of your fellowmen, your co-operation is earnestly desired and greatly needed. In such a time as this the people will naturally turn to the church. It will be a calamity to the nation and to the churches if their chosen ministers neglect to exercise their proper leadership in the great cause of feeding a world in need. For the world is in want of food.

"To meet the needs of the war and of the world we must produce generously, give freely to our allies, ourselves eat as much as, but no more than we need, and especially save the waste."

It goes without saying that the ministry will heed this appeal and take up their task with enthusiasm. In this they should have the complete co-operation of their parishioners and the general public. Their words will fall of their purpose if they lack auditors. The services next Sunday should be turned into a patriotic celebration. Let the people fill the churches and make the day a memorable one.

TRADE BOOMING

Almost unnoticed, our trade with Latin-America has been growing to enormous proportions. It happens to be brought into notice just now by the interesting announcement in a Berlin newspaper that the "dwindling" of our trade with South America, and the prospect that it may soon "cease entirely," represent the "greatest triumph of the U-boat warfare over our new enemy."

The truth of the situation is to be found in figures just given out by the National City Bank of New York. They show that our trade with South America for the nine months ending with March show a gain of thirty-six per cent in our imports and a gain of forty-five per cent in our exports. The gain of both imports and exports over the corresponding months two years ago is about 100 per cent. And since the new U-boat campaign began last February, our South American trade has steadily gained.

The figures for all Latin-America are still more impressive. For the year ending with the present month, it is estimated that our entire trade with our Latin neighbors will amount to $1,500,000,000, nearly half a billion dollars more than for last year, and more than twice as great as our total Latin-American trade before the war.

Plans for issuing $4000 free government insurance on the life of every American soldier and sailor during the war, in lieu of pension arrangements, will be taken up by the Council of National Defense at Washington. The plan would also provide for total or partial disability.

It is not the time for those who have means to hoard it and keep it out of circulation. To do this will only tend to make times harder and cause a business depression that will defeat the whole plan of the nation.

The consumer who buys all he can and stores it away in anticipation of a war shortage may not be as wise as he thinks himself to be. There is always a possibility of prices descending when you buy at the top notch.

Playing golf must have hardened up a lot of millionaires so they will be able to wield the patriotic hoe effectively.

Patriotism does not require us to break off friendly relations with the frankfurter.

CANNING LESSONS

Clip This Lesson for Ready Reference

The cold-pack method of canning is so simple and the instructions so easily followed that the women of the country are taking up the work by the thousands, says today's bulletin from the National Emergency Food Garden Commission of Washington, which is co-operating with this paper in a nation-wide campaign for conserving the food of the country. The canning primer and one on drying will be sent free to any reader of this paper who writes to the commission at 210 Maryland building, Washington, D. C. In the cold-pack method the steps to be taken follow:

1. Select sound vegetables and fruits. If possible can them the same day they are picked. Wash, clean and prepare them.
2. Have ready, on the stove, a can or pail of boiling water.
3. Place the vegetables or fruits in cheese-cloth or in some other porous receptacle—a wire basket is excellent for dipping and blanching them in boiling water.
4. Put them whole into the boiling water. After the water begins to boil begin to count the blanching time.
5. The blanching time varies from one to 20 minutes, according to the vegetable or fruit. When the blanching is complete remove the vegetable or fruit from the boiling water and plunge them a number of times into cold water, to harden the pulp and check the flow of coloring matter. Do not allow to stand in cool water.
6. The containers should be thoroughly clean. It is not necessary to sterilize them in steam or boiling water before filling them, for the reason that in the cold-pack process both the insides of containers, and the contents are sterilized. The jars should be heated before the cold product is put in them.
7. Pack the product into the containers, leaving about a quarter of an inch of space at the top.
8. With vegetables add one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart container and fill with boiling water. With fruits use syrups.
9. With glass jars always use a new rubber. Test the rubber by stretching or turning inside out. Fit on the rubber and put the lid in place. If the container has a screw top screw up as hard as possible, but use only the thumb and little finger in tightening it. This makes it possible for steam generated within to escape and prevent breakage. If a glass top jar is used, snap the top ball only, leaving the lower ball loose during sterilization. Tin cans should be completely sealed.
10. Place the filled and capped containers on the rack in the sterilizer. If the home-made or commercial hot water bath outfit is used, some authorities insist that enough water should be in the boiler to come at least one inch above the tops of the containers, and that the water, in boiling out, should never be allowed to drop to the level of these tops. Begin to count processing time when the water begins to boil.
11. At the end of the sterilizing period remove the containers from the sterilizer. Fasten covers on tightly at once, tip each container over to test for leakage, and store. Be sure that no draft is allowed to blow on glass jars, as it may cause breaking.
12. If jars are to be stored where there is strong light wrap them in paper, preferably brown, as light will fade the color of products canned in glass jars, and sometimes deteriorate the food value.

Our Part in World's Great Drama

Atlantic Monthly

The times are mad with changes. Tidal waves of it are sweeping in on every shore of humanity, and no one may say what is approaching on silent feet out of the dark of the future into the white light of the present. But terrible as the times are, and more terrible as they may become, surely no one can fail to be proud to have had granted to him or to her the inestimable privilege of life at this momentous hour.

These are no times to breed the "idle singers of an empty day." They are so wide, so vast, so fraught with astounding possibilities, that while on the one hand, awful dangers lurk within them, still, on the other, no ideal for the general benefit of mankind is too high to hope now for its possible fruition. No American may dare to live lightly in the present; for whether our country rides the waves of change successfully, or is swamped by them, is going to depend not upon this person or upon that, or upon the high official in Washington, but upon you, upon the backbone of the whole nation, upon the dedication and highmindedness of every individual within its borders.

It would seem as if Fate had gathered up the visions, the hopes, the highest dreams and most passionate ideals, out of all the past years, and now for their possible fulfillment was holding them out with overflowing hands to the people of this age. It may be—who knows to the contrary?—that each of us alive today has been especially invited into life at this extraordinary moment, with some grave responsibility, some definite and solemn part to play—no matter how small—in the great world drama. And we, moving in the spotlight of the present, may well be awe-stricken by the feeling that the eyes of all the noble dead who poured themselves out lavishly in the past for the furtherance of great ideals are watching now from behind the scenes to see how we take our parts in these great issues, in these magnificent opportunities; to see if we belong to, or fail of, that

One great society alone on earth. The noble living and the noble dead.

It is well to realize that our country as a whole has been slow to awake to the awful greatness of the times; but now, at least, she is awakening, is going forth gloriously! And as in the past we have not shown ourselves altogether ignoble, so let us hope and believe that we still have some gifts of heroism that will not altogether fail us in the present.

If there are crucial times before us now, let us not be dismayed. It is the crucial times that stretch men's souls. It is when one is harnessed against the wall of circumstances, that wall opens suddenly into one's own larger life, and so into God. And we who, on Good Friday, have gone to war, may well reflect deeply that the Christian ideals for which we fight, and the Resurrection of Easter, were born, not out of peace and comfort and ease, but out of Gethsemane, Golgotha and the Crucifixion. And while we face these times soberly, let us also face them gladly, for out of them may come for America a refreshing and a renewing of the well-springs of life.

To Be Changes in Constitution?

New Republic

What will be the ultimate fate of such unofficial bodies as the council of national defense—are they merely "sports" which the body politic has put forth under an extraordinary stimulus and destined therefore to wither away when this stimulus is removed, or are they true species, the beginnings of valuable institutions?

Again, what will be the permanent outcome of the President's notable efforts these days at "common counsel" with the congressional leaders—will they be likely to pave the way for the gradual displacements of the cabinet in the American sense with a cabinet in the British sense? Yet again, there is the ever-present question of budgetary reform. Must not the government's increasing resort to those forms of taxation which are most directly burdensome to the taxpayer bring this problem evermore to the front? And will not the recent reform of the Senate rules, forced from the White House, have a similar tendency?

To be sure, the practice of doing business by unanimous consent sometimes thwarted the congressional log-rollers, as where an individual senator or two held up a rivers and harbor bill at the end of the session, but ordinarily it promoted it, by giving disgruntled seekers after "pork" in the House a second chance to force their demands through friends in the upper chamber. Now, however, this opportunity for blackmail is at an end, together with the special defense that has hitherto existed against the worst scandals of log-rolling. In both ways the case for executive budget-making will be considerably strengthened with Congress itself.

Thus war has overtaken us at a peculiarly favorable moment for effecting lasting constitutional changes. For several years forces have been accumulating behind the barriers of the old constitution, straining and weakening them at many points, yet without finding adequate enlargement. Where the stress of war falls coincident with such forces we may expect it to thrust aside accepted principles, not for the time only, but permanently.

Certainly if the war is considerably prolonged, we may expect our system to emerge from it substantially altered in numerous ways, with the result, however, it may be of postponing more radical alterations many years.

German Peace Feelers

New York Post

In his Flag Day speech President Wilson asserted that the German government has never made a specific statement of terms of peace. This is true. At the Chancellor's last appearance before the Reichstag he definitely refused to say on what conditions Germany would make peace. This was his way of balancing himself between the two parties—the Pan-Germans, for and General von Gebtsattel, the head of the Pan-German League. The latter expressed the fear that the government was conceiving the war aims too narrowly; he maintained that Germany should fight on until she won a victory enabling her to exact the utmost from her enemies. But what did Bethmann-Hollweg reply? Did he say either I agree or I dissent? No, he contented himself, while thanking the Pan-Germans for strengthening the nation's "will for power," with intimating that they were a little deficient in "political tact," and declaring that it would be imprudent to discuss in public and in detail Germany's war aims.

This persistent silence of the government, however, has not concealed the fact that there exists in Germany a strong demand that the Chancellor speak out concerning terms of peace. It has been uttered in many ways. The voices do not always agree as to particulars. But there is a growing feeling that the Allied statement of terms has placed upon Germany the duty—if only from the point of view of good strategy—of being equally explicit about peace. Thus the Munich Post asserted, shortly after the Chancellor's non-committal speech, that "it must now be the affair of the German people to carry through a peace program." Two tendencies have been clearly visible. They roughly define themselves as annexationist and non-annexationist. The president of the Independent Committee for a German Peace recently asserted that no German of any political importance demanded annexations. But he was at once angrily called to book by Pan-Germans, who pointed out that they had all along insisted upon territory from Russia, France, Belgium and the rest.

With the two parties thus clamoring in a contradictory sense, it appears that the hand of the German government is slowly being forced. It has lately been putting out peace-feelers. They are dimly discernible in the proposals put forward by German Socialists allowed to go to Stockholm as thinly disguised agents of the government. Scheidemann and his fellows have talked openly, though rather vaguely, of a peace without indemnities or annexations. This was an obvious attempt to meet the Russian formula—as, indeed, the German government has sought to meet it in other ways. But Socialists are not official. They may be useful, but they can be disavowed. It is different with what appears in the Norddeutsche Allgemeine Zeitung. That is the medium for official communications, and in it the Chancellor has made a significant statement. We are following the Amsterdam correspondent of the London Daily Express, who quotes the words textually: "Germany wishes no increase of territory nor any political or economic increase of power. Germany merely wants to defend her own national territory against foreign plans of conquest, and also wants guarantees necessary for future defense and self-protection." That this statement is authentic, we have a good proof in the violent attacks upon it of the Junker and Pan-German press. They almost accuse the Chancellor of betraying his country, but it has been pointed out to them that by a skillful definition of "guarantees," everything they demand may be included. What surer guarantee than the port of Antwerp, a loaded pistol held at England's head, or large slices of territory along the French and Belgian frontiers, to say nothing of Courland and Lithuania. We know very well how "guarantees" can be stretched to cover conquests and annexations of all kinds.

Nevertheless, the statement in the Norddeutsche, and the hurry over it in Germany, imply that the German government is awake to the need of showing a more reasonable attitude towards a possible peace. The German people are finding out that the submarine, which has its ups and downs in ruthless warfare, is not the "infallible weapon" to end the war which they were assured by their rulers it would be. A sign of the government's worry on this subject was the recent suppression of an issue of the Vossische Zeitung in which the naval expert, Captain Persius, wrote that the outcome of the war would not be determined by the submarine. The kaiser may still exhort his soldiers to hold out, since "their comrades on the sea were working to cut piece by piece the vital nerve of the enemy," but all must know that the many promises in this matter are now so long overdue as to be no better than broken reeds. Meanwhile, Germans are being warned by Professor Delbruck that there is abroad in the world a "fear of German despotism," and Prince Hohenzollern writes in the Vienna Neue Freie Presse to explain the reasons why Germany is more hated than ever, and to declare that the entry of the United States into the war makes the outlook "very unfavorable" for Germany. No wonder that we hear of peace movements in Germany. Let her rulers begin with a frank acceptance of the minimum terms laid down by the Allies and just reaffirmed by President Wilson—evacuation and restoration of Belgium—and about the rest negotiations might begin early.

The Bread Trust
Certain doughy-handed citizens arranged as being component parts of a bread trust, appeared before the bar and said "Nay, nay," and expressed a desire to sidestep the issue. The court then said "Nay, nay," and the latter nays had it.

Now if these gentlemen are not a trust, if in their souls they oppose the principles of a trust, they should be glad of an opportunity to have their sentiments written into the record. And if—which heaven forbid—they are a trust—well, the public has a right to a chance at being glad once in a while.

Testing the Faith
When a man who never has displayed signs of possessing scruples of any sort suddenly develops a fine and vigorous mess of scruples against enlisting or being drafted, doubts arise as to his sincerity.

Possibly he has gone wrong in analysis of his motives.

Adulterated Drugs
Within a few days four girls have taken poison, and not one of the lot experienced any pang worse than a tummy ache.

Is it possible that druggists have become so wicked as to cheat poor girls who think they are paying for a lethal dose?

Effective Polish
Three men in Cleveland have died from drinking bar polish.

Stuff must have been just a little more potent than the ordinary bar drink.

Editorial Bias
An editor has been interned for the period of the war by reason of his habit of writing a defense of the sinking of the Lusitania every time there was a gap in his columns.

Now if the fellow outlives the term of the war there will be one more problem to consider. For, of course, public policy would be against turning him loose.

On the Siding
Mayor Thompson of Chicago has been sidetracked. The suspicion arises that he is an American in sentiment, this based on his frankness in proclaiming himself pro-German.

Now if some patriotic yardmaster were to shunt a flatcar of bricks on that siding the country would be grateful.

Putting It on George
"Let George do it," was the attitude of some people towards the bonds. Just the way they used to talk when George Washington had a revolution on his hands, and it made George pretty mad.

Killing John
One admirer of Billy Sunday says the evangelist has done more to kill John Barleycorn than has been done by all other forces combined.

If this is true, Billy deserves much credit as well as cash. But why couldn't he have done it grammatically and not been vulgar?

"Society Fights to Hear Slaying Case"—Headline.
What society is this? Considering that the case is particularly filthy it must be some organization bent on the study of crime, sort o' moral slummers.

The Hunger Strike
An anti-conscriptionist upon being put in jail declined to eat and announced that he was running a hunger strike.

That ought to be the least of the jailer's troubles, particularly if he is furnishing meals by contract.

Reformation
After a woman had married a man for the purpose of reforming him of the drink habit, she concluded that a good way would be to shame him by taking drink for drink with him.

A natural consequence was that they both got drunk, and the man was not reformed, while she had the headache of her life.

The moral of this is that it is easier to be pulled down than to be pulled up.

Property of the Firm
They are turning German church bells into cannon.

The partnership so often proclaimed by the kaiser may be regarded as giving him peculiar right to strip the house of worship.

Berger didn't get his passports, but as he wasn't interned either, he is ahead of the game farther than he deserves.

HAY WEIGHT VARIANCE IS FOUGHT BY SEALER

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—In order to protect shippers and producers of hay from loss in variances in weights in the sale of hay, State Superintendent of Weights and Measures Charles G. Johnson has announced that the law passed by the legislature covering this contingency is to be enforced.

In accordance with this law Johnson has established 2000 pounds as the standard weight of one ton of hay and has prescribed for such weight a commercial tolerance not to exceed 45 pounds per ton and on individual bales weighing 225 pounds a tolerance not to exceed five pounds per bale.

Johnson estimates shippers and producers of hay suffer a loss of approximately 91,000,000 pounds annually due to variances in weights in the sale of hay.

The heat generated by the Radiant-fire heater is clean, healthful and warms the body. Now is the time to buy one before the war causes a higher rise in the price of raw materials. See the Gas Office exhibit today.

AFTERNOON NUPTIALS

Miss Marie Thomas and Walter Schlack, Seattle, Wed At Interesting Ceremony

An innovation, which proved most impressive yesterday afternoon at the nuptials of Miss Marie Thomas, daughter of Superior Judge and Mrs. W. H. Thomas and Walter H. Schlack, was the performance of the civil service first by the bride's father, followed by the religious rites at which Rev. J. A. Stevenson officiated.

The beautiful home on West First street was a dream of beauty in its pink and white adornments in combination with a profusion of greenery. In the large living room, where the marriage was solemnized, a background of greenery with delicate white blossoms extended from floor to ceiling and festoons extended to the corners of the room, spicy white carnations nestling in the cool depths. The stairway was twined with greenery and roses and carnations were placed in jars and vases throughout the house.

Preceding the ceremony, Mrs. Margaret Caldwell Gehrett of Los Angeles, sweetly rendered "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning," after which Miss Ramona Clavenger began the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, as the bridal party descended the stairs and met the groom and the officiating clergyman under a graceful wedding bell, fashioned of pink and white carnations, lighted from within and adding greatly to the harmonious effect.

First to descend the stairs were the two little brothers of the bride, Edgar and James Thomas, clad in white and carrying white satin pillows, later used by the bride and groom for the benediction. Following came little Miss Ruth Thomas, sister of the bride, all in fluffy white with blue sash, hair ribbon and clipper bows. She carried the two golden bands in the heart of a large pink rose and scattered rose petals in the path of the bride, who walked with her father. The two bridesmaids were charming girls, Misses Christine Schenck and Elsie Zerman, the former robed in pale blue silk and the latter in apricot silk and both carrying arm bouquets of dainty pink carnations.

The winsome bride was bewitchingly gowned in white net with white satin ribbon trimmings, with a filmy veil caught to the graceful head with waxen orange blossoms and a string of pearls, the gift of Dr. Willela Wolfe. A handsome la valiere with a pendant of one of the groom's highly prized fraternity emblems, completed the attractive costume and the bride carried a magnificent shower of white sweet peas with just a hint of pink made by her mother. Miss Christine Schenck later captured the cluster.

After Judge Thomas and Dr. Stevenson had officiated at their important parts of the marriage service, and God's blessings had been asked on the newly-married pair, congratulations were showered upon them and the company of one hundred interested relatives and friends were grouped out-of-doors and a picture taken.

Many costly and beautiful gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Schlack to adorn their home in Seattle, where the groom is a prosperous young business man and they will go north in about a week. His parents reside at Post Falls, Idaho.

Tempering refreshments of ice cream, cake and mint, carrying out the pink and white color scheme, were prettily served by a bevy of the bride's friends.

After a sumptuous wedding dinner served at James' to the bridal party of twenty-four, an informal reception

LAWN PARTY

Queen Esther Circle of First Methodist Church Make Funds For Scholarship

Wishing to secure a fund to purchase a scholarship in one of the Methodist schools, the Queen Esther Circle of the First Methodist church gave a very delightful and financially successful lawn party last evening at the home of Miss Violet Wiesseman on North Broadway.

The first part of the evening was passed with a musical program on the front lawn, which was gay with Japanese lanterns and decorated with ferns, the decorations being patriotic in their scheme.

The program began with a musical and vocal number by Misses Holly Lash and Dorothy Mead, Keith Davis and Edward Burns on violins, cello and piano. Miss Lillian Breed and Miss Corinne Burns pleased with readings. Miss Sharpless with instrumental numbers and the trio of violin, cello and piano with a concluding number.

Adjournment was then taken to the backyard, where prettily adorned booths were found with candies, ice cream and punch were sold and the ever-pleasing fishpond made happy diversion.

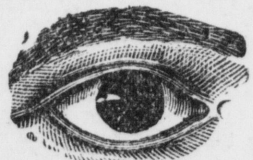

Balboa Chapel Dedication
The interdenominational chapel, which has just been completed at Balboa, under the auspices of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, will be dedicated at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, July 1. The sermon will be preached by Rev. T. C. Horton, superintendent of the Institute, and the famous Institute Male Quartet will sing. Regular Sunday services will be held in the chapel thereafter—Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. and preaching service at 11 o'clock. During the summer the Sunday evening service will be held on the pier at 5:30.

The co-operation of all the people of that section is earnestly solicited to make this religious work a benefit to the community.

Pleasant Meeting
The Women's Auxiliary met yesterday for its regular meeting and after transacting the business, the members adjourned to James' gold room, where lunch was enjoyed.

The next meeting on July 11 will be held with Mrs. P. Ludlow on North Broadway.

CHATT 'N SEAU CLUB

Merry Time Enjoyed Last Evening, Two Candidates Are Initiated

No more appropriate name having been found for their club, the old name has been re-adopted and the Chatt 'n Seau Club is again on the map. The club had a merry meeting last evening with Miss Gertrude Pitts at her home on North Ross street. She was assisted by her mother and sister, Miss Frances Potts.

The two candidates elected for initiation, Misses Arlie Cravath and Hattie Powers, were blindfolded and led about, expecting many dire things to happen, when their masks were lifted and they beheld the small tables decorated with roses and set with an appetizing dinner on the lawn.

After all were seated, the members were in turn surprised, when small envelopes were found at the places with the words, "Guess who," and all were on the qui vive until after the appetizing menu had been served, when they were permitted to peep inside and found the announcement that Miss Potts and Miss Grace White would leave Saturday for their vacation trip to Yosemite.

Music, sewing and all sorts of merry stunts passed the evening, the following being present to enjoy them: Misses Mildred Britton, Irene Cramer, Esther Fluor, Alice Huntington, Emily Lykke, Helene McNeill, Edna Meyer, Arlie Cravath and Hattie Powers.

Hostess to Graduates
Mrs. Arthur Hoefler was hostess last evening at a dinner party for six of the graduates of the Santa Ana high school. Green and white, the class colors, were used effectively in the decorations and throughout the four-course menu.

The evening was passed with music and games out of doors.

Those present at the pleasant affair were Misses Mabel Trindle, Lorna McIntyre, Lois Smith, Hugh Osborne, Theodore Moyle, Felton Browning and William Cook of Orange.

Last Ebell Meeting
The Ebell society will hold its last meeting for the year Saturday afternoon at Elks' hall.

The annual reports will be heard and a committee appointed to arrange for the Red Cross work in connection with the Ebell will make a report.

A delightful musical program will be given by Mrs. Holmes Bishop, whose work is very popular here and Mrs. Walter Overen of Los Angeles will give two pianologues with original music. She is a former Iowa resident. Mrs. C. F. Crose, the Ebell president.

The program will be followed by an informal reception to the incoming officers and light refreshments will be served.

Postoffice Clerks Meet

The members of the local branch of the Postoffice Clerks' Association met in regular monthly meeting on Wednesday evening at the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Berry on Ross street.

After the transaction of the routine business the following program was rendered:

Instrumental duet, Mrs. Flake Smith and Mabel Harvey.
Recitation, Charles Ditchey.
Vocal duet, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Berry.

Recitation, Miss Clara Cade.
Instrumental duet, Frank Cannon and son Loren.

Recitation, Chas. Berry.
Piano solo, Mabel Harvey.
Vocal solo, Flake Smith.
Piano solo, Everett Berry.
Piano solo, Mrs. Jas. E. Alexander.
Sidelights on the P. O. Force—Martin Warren.

Reflection of the Sidelights, Sam Vogt.

After the program refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

Celebrated Birthday

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer A. Biggs were hostesses to a dozen friends of their sons, Frank and Martin, last evening, in compliment to the birthday of John Bruno, who is home for a visit before going into the service.

The prettily appointed table was decked with red, white and blue and two cakes were admired, one holding the required number of candles made by Mrs. Biggs and the other sent by Mr. Bruno's mother and adorned with the Stars and Stripes.

After enjoying the delicious chicken and all its accessories, toasts were given, wishing Mr. Bruno all success.

The party then attended the big Knights of Columbus reception at Anaheim, when the new club house was dedicated.

Attended Interesting Wedding
Mr. and Mrs. Carey R. Smith returned yesterday from Los Angeles where they attended the wedding of their granddaughter, Miss Ruth Smith, to John Jay Hopkins. Both the young people were born and passed their childhood in Santa Ana.

They were married Tuesday evening.

PETERS FAMILY GROWS IN NUMBERS IN OHIO

The Peters family in Ohio has grown to such proportions that annual reunions now have to be held in a public park at Finley.

J. Peters of this city, father of Mrs. J. W. Dean, left Santa Ana yesterday for his annual pilgrimage east and to attend the reunion. Peters is traveling over the Santa Fe and will go to Flint, Mich., for a visit with relatives, and will time his visits to other states so as to reach Finley, Ohio, in time to attend the reunion of the Peters families on August 14.

Peters has been faithful in his attendance at the meeting of relatives, having gone east every year of the eleven years he has lived in Santa Ana. The reunions heretofore have been held at the home of some of the relatives, but last year the number in attendance was 215 and it was decided hereafter to hold the gathering in the public park at Finley.

SENSATIONS IN 'TANK' AS BIG SPELLS RAIN DESCRIBED

Land Seaman Tells of Raid On Machine-gun Nest in Somme Battle

BY W. S. FORREST
[United Press Staff Correspondent]
PARIS, June 1, (By Mail).—How does it feel and sound in the "in-bards" of a British tank in action?
Bullets clattering against the steel covered sides of the newly invented war machine sound like myriads of hailstones against the windows of a moving train. A direct hit by a shell shakes the monster from stem to stern and rattles your teeth but in tanks like this it merely tickles their ribs and they wallow on.
A first hand description of a tank fighting was given here today by one of the crew of H. M. Landship "Ish-thy-saurus." He speaks from inside information.
"You need your sealings to ride a tank," the land seaman said, describing the slow rolling ride toward an enemy machine-gun "nest" somewhere on the Somme. The tank ap-

Pegler Tells of Whole Towns Erased by Dynamite Fired By Hindenburg Armies

BY J. W. PEGLER
[United Press Staff Correspondent]
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, May 15.—(By Mail).—Whole towns erased by dynamite, orchards sheared off at the ground and towering rows of roadside trees methodically felled—these scenes of merciless destruction illustrate why the British soldier wants retribution against the Boche.
Tommy goes ahead repairing the roads and clearing the debris from village streets, admitting that it was military good sense for the enemy to obstruct the lines of pursuit.
But the Germans said they did these things to prevent the concealment of troops. And the soldier reasons it this way: The Boche aeroplanes never get over anyway to observe where the troops are missing. So what difference could it make whether they have concealment? Also, the Boche was careful to ruin orchards, but he left many acres of dense but unproductive woods.
Strafe 'Em
What's the answer? Strafe 'em. Peronne Cathedral refutes the plea of military necessity. Dynamite blew out the east wall and two sides and brought the dome crashing amid the prostrate stone columns. Today the interior is a mountain of hopeless wreckage. On its sagging balcony the pipe organ sings the ghost of a peace-time anthem as the May breeze goes sighing through the valves. The pipes jangle as a brick is dislodged and tumbles to the floor. Far away the guns boom.
The British never shelled the church. The remaining west wall is not scarred by shell fragments. It was left standing to hamper British observation.
At the outskirts of the town lies Peronne cemetery where the Boche dug in among the dead. Corpses were thrown into bonfires and the vaults occupied by German officers as dug-outs. Two trench lines run straight through the cemetery.
Military necessity made the enemy smash the door of a French family tomb where six dead had slept for many years. The coffins remained exposed.
Find Coffin Riddled
Two English guard regiments with a little feud between them went in to the cemetery on the heels of the Boche. The first arrivals found one coffin bored by a machine-gun bullet from the direction of their advance. This message was on the white-washed wall:
"The Boche may have had dug-outs here but he didn't shoot the hole in the far-off coffin."
To which the late-comers scribbled this reply:
"Neither did they write on the walls, you blackguards."
Strewn with the fragments of headstones and battlefield junk are countless head-work wreaths, placed by mourners in days of peace. "A Notre Chere Grandmere," said the inscription on one. Grandmere's grave may be one of those pried open.
At the edge of the cemetery was a very little grave, carpeted blue with forget-me-nots. The headstone said Madeline was only four years old. The Boche had not touched it. Near by, a row of wooden "Iron Crosses," each inscribed "Unser Kamerade," gave proof that the German cadaver factory lost some raw material through sentiment.
Arras Cathedral Wrecked
At Arras the Cathedral and the Hotel de Ville are smashed beyond possibility of restoration. Only a small corner of the hotel survives as a memory of that grand specimen of Spanish architecture.
Bapaume is a hideous shell, although the Australians have cleared up the streets. Here an Australian, peacefully tending a cooking stew, told how the Boche hate goes mad at times.
"A German naval gun tries to shell us now and again," he said. "But the gunners must be crazy, judging from the way they shoot." The road toward Albert runs through the country where the British artillery first discovered its strength. Ruin stretches for miles. On top of the Butte de Warlen court is a wooden monument by a British regiment erected to their comrades who died storming the country. There is not the slightest trace of the town. With a field-glass abandoned tanks may be sighted on this old battlefield, one of them labelled in Russian, "Petrograd."
It is inconceivable to the battlefield tourist that this country was green farmland and woods, dotted with villages before the Boche came.
The famous bronze statue of the Virgin still hangs from the steeple of the Church of Albert. The surviving French townspeople are sure it will never fall. That is their faith.
The allied armies and America's men are their hope.
Maybe there will be charity after the war—but for the present, retribution to discuss their social standing.
"We want an eight hour day," declared one washwoman. "We want to have time every day to visit our friends and enjoy life."
"No! No!" declared the next speaker. "What we want is more work. I want to get all the work I can do and work as long as I please. I have no friends to visit."
Need More Friends
"That woman is wrong," declared a third. "If we haven't got any friends to visit, it's because we've never had time to make friends as other people do. What we need is more friends and more time to enjoy them."

DEMOCRACY IN RUSSIA

(NOTE—This second installment of a graphic picture story of conditions in Russia today, just received by mail from William G. Shepherd, United Press Staff Correspondent in Petrograd.)
BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PETROGRAD, June 1.—(By Mail).—Every theory, every belief, every scheme of sociology, every injustice, every problem of poverty and affluence and of labor—is being voted on in Russia today.
Meetings by the thousands are being held. The Russian people are dividing themselves along the lines of professions and occupations and in their meetings the smallest problems are brought up. In a meeting of washwomen in Petrograd the other day, for instance, the women went so far as to discuss their social standing.
"We want an eight hour day," declared one washwoman. "We want to have time every day to visit our friends and enjoy life."
"No! No!" declared the next speaker. "What we want is more work. I want to get all the work I can do and work as long as I please. I have no friends to visit."
Need More Friends
"That woman is wrong," declared a third. "If we haven't got any friends to visit, it's because we've never had time to make friends as other people do. What we need is more friends and more time to enjoy them."
Utter and absolute free speech exists; only this could make possible the infinity of the number of matters

The third impression I received as an American, was a sense of bewilderment at the problem of getting all this voting translated into laws.
The voting is not vague and unsystematic. Spontaneously a system has grown up out of the old organizations, whereby national organizations of all sorts are developing.
A few washerwomen, for instance, or a few farmers, in some extremely remote district hold a meeting and elect a delegate to a meeting of washerwomen or farmers in some nearby town. This larger meeting, in turn, elects a delegate to a convention in a still larger center and finally, delegates are chosen to represent a still larger district in the main organization which is being formed here at the capital. There is a bewildering number of such organizations, with an uncountable number of repetitions.
Perfect Freedom
A man, for instance, may be a member of a soldier's organization, he may also belong to an organization of his craft and, in addition, he may vote in an organization of Ukrainians, or Letts, or Poles. There is no limit to the number of places in which he may express his opinion and have his votes counted.
How the new government, out of all the mass of public opinion—and there's never been so much public opinion anywhere in the world as there is in Russia now—will be able to sift the preponderant causes is a bewildering problem, but it is one that the new government is determined to solve.
Wherefore in solemn assembly, they voted to abolish a pleasant and therefore somewhat lingering custom of Tsarist Selo.
People in Russia vote at the drop of the hat—on any subject.
SEEKING INFORMATION CONCERNING GRADUATES OF KIRKSVILLE NORMAL
Attorney Charles W. Thomas of Woodland, Cal., has written a letter to T. E. Stephenson of Santa Ana making inquiry concerning graduates of the Kirksville, Mo., Normal School. Attorney Thomas states that he has been requested to gather data for that school, of which he is a graduate.
"I would like to get as soon as possible the names and addresses of any students of this normal who may live in your vicinity. If you should know any students who attended Kirksville Normal, I wish you would ask them, for me, to write me a letter, stating any fact, legend, tradition, fancy or romance of the Normal, or their impressions as to teachers and others whom they might have had or met at Kirksville."
Attorney Thomas inquires specifically concerning Jennie Burton and Heit-tis McKim, who he says attended Kirksville at the same time he did and who he is informed taught school in or about Santa Ana years ago. The Woodland attorney is the father of Lieut.-Col. C. W. Thomas, Jr., former adjutant general of California.

FEATURE STORY FOR THIS DAY BY UNITED PRESS

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, May 27.—(By Mail)—Fighting with machine guns and even with revolvers, pilots of battleplanes are today making the clouds as hotly a contested battleground as is to be found on the earth below. Summer skies and fine weather have forced fighting in the air on a large scale.

One British pilot attacked by a German Nieuport, found his machine gun jammed. Immediately he put down his nose and dived, fixing his gun at the same time. Relieving the jam he climbed back to fight and tore off every round of ammunition he had for the machine gun. The German, still apparently unharmed, continued to fight, so the English boy—less than 21—drawing his Colt's automatic pistol, charged straight at the German, firing seven shots at him at close range. The German toppled and fell, his machine breaking in two in the air.

Here is the official report of another air fight which happened the same day. Names and numbers only are omitted:

"Captain Blank, with three others of the same squadron, dived at a German aeroplane which they riddled with bullets and drove down. Then they saw four red albatross scouts and Captain Blank engaged one at close range. Eventually the German machine got into a favorable position and Captain Blank immediately put his machine into a spin. On shaking off the German he at once regained height and dived at another scout with whom he fought for a considerable time. He finally out-manuevered his opponent and the hostile machine crashed. Shortly he engaged another machine of the same type but he was shot through the wrist and the top of his control-lever was carried away. Although in great pain and flying at a disadvantage he succeeded in landing his machine undamaged on our side of the lines and then fainted."

While this was happening at one part of the front another battle was taking place at another only a short distance away. A photographic reconnaissance, with a small escort, was attacked by seven German planes. A captain drove down one of the hostile machines out of control and then dived at three others which were following one of our machines down. He was unable to catch up in time, however, and our machine was forced to land in a field, but he eventually succeeded in engaging one of the German machines which crashed quite near ours.

Second Lieutenant B. opened fire at a large white two-seater which went down and was seen to crash by others. Lieutenant C. drove down a black and white German scout which was also seen to crash. A third hostile machine was destroyed by Lieutenant D.

The Germans are painting their machines all colors of the rainbow and some of the shades not to be found there. And not satisfied with solid reds, greens, blues and so forth, various combinations are seen. There are yellow topped wings with green underneath; white wings with violet bodies; blue and gold wings and red noses; silver wings and striped noses; canary-colored bodies with blue-tipped wings and more curious combinations still. German pilots, it appears when supplied with machines can then do pretty much as they please with them, painting them any desired colors and changing the shade.

On the other hand, the British flyers are more modest. Their machines are khaki, white or cream. Day after day these plain birds and fancy birds fight it out high in the sky.

FULLERTON CHILD, 4, BADLY HURT BY AUTO

FULLERTON, June 28.—Hit and run over by an automobile driven by Morton Jones, Joe Rothaermal, 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rothaermal, 3302 East Commonwealth avenue, was painfully hurt Tuesday evening.

The extent of his injuries could not be learned. The child was rolling a hoop along Spadra avenue and suddenly darted out into the street, stepping from behind an automobile parked at the curb directly in front of Jones' car, it was said.

The automobile knocked the little fellow down and rolled over him.

TODAY IS NAVY DAY IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—This is Navy day in San Francisco's recruiting week campaign. The navy held the center of interest at the Chamber of Commerce recruiting meetings. Sailors were on hand with their officers in full uniform, and the speakers laid stress on the navy in their recruiting speeches.

The army is not forgetting it needs men. Yesterday fifty recruits were added to Uncle Sam's regulars and today over 100 are wanted.

NEW LAW WILL CONCERN MANY STATE FRUITS

After July 27, Contents of the Box Must Be Even Throughout

Standards of virtually all fruits sold in California are to be regulated under what is known as the fruit standardization law, which was amended at the recent session of the legislature and signed by Governor Stephens. This measure is materially broader than the one adopted two years ago, as it affects not only fruits packed for shipment outside of the state, but the bulk of that consumed in California itself. It will take effect on July 27.

An important feature of the new law is that such fruits as peaches, apricots, pears, plums, etc., as well as tomatoes, must be of approximately even size throughout. A practice of putting the large fruit on top and the small, inferior grades on the bottom, is legislated out of business. Apples are about the only fruit not covered in this provision. Many loopholes which existed in the old law have been eliminated. For instance, under the original statute table grapes, while nominally required to conform to a certain standard of sweetness, could be shipped in lug boxes without regulation whatever. This is changed, and all grapes must come up to required standard before they can be marketed.

Oranges are required to come up to what is known as the "eight-to-one" standard, which means that the juice must contain at least eight parts of soluble solids to one part of acid. This provision is designed to prevent the marketing of unripe fruit. The sale of frozen oranges is also forbidden, but none of these regulations worked against the use of the fruit in the production of manufactured goods or by-products.

ALLEGED DESERTER AT REDLANDS IS SOUGHT

REDLANDS, June 28.—Police and military authorities of Southern California today were warned to be on the lookout for L. C. Grant, 19, who is alleged to have deserted from the local National Guard company.

MAN'S BROTHERS' SONS DIE AS FOES IN WAR

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—A story of brothers' sons fighting against each other, which was common during the Civil War, is told by Peter Huss, a blacksmith of Sacramento, who has nephews, killed in action in France. Huss said he received a letter from his brother Felix in Germany telling of the death of his son, killed while fighting in France with the German army. Last week he received another letter from his brother Louis which told of the death of his son who was killed while fighting with the French forces.

JESS WILLARD'S SHOW FREED FROM SHERIFF

BUFFALO, June 28.—Jess Willard's wild west show was released from sheriff's attachment at Jamestown early today when the champion heavyweight gave a surety bond. Willard then ordered the circus to proceed to Erie, Pa., where it will show today. The attachment was secured by Tom Johnson and Jack Curley, Willard's former managers. August Becker, Willard's Buffalo attorney in his snarl with his managers, said today that the litigation begun in New York by Curley had been deferred until next week, when Willard will appear in person.

OFFICIAL CENSOR IS 'DITCHED' BY BAKER

WASHINGTON, June 28.—Secretary of War Baker today ditched the "committee on public information," otherwise the official censor—insofar as the handling of military news is concerned.

This action followed the confusion yesterday over publication of the arrival of Pershing's men in France. The war department had sanctioned its release. While the department opposed publication, the committee authorized it. This caused Baker to order that General McIntyre, war censor, should be the court of last resort hereafter instead of the civilian vice board in the committee.

Secretary of State Lansing has observed a similar custom ever since the public information committee was established. Lansing has his own publicity and censorship department.

JUST WHAT SHE NEEDED

When women complain of weariness, loss of strength and vitality, backache, pains in sides and hips, dull headaches, dizziness, floating specks, and similar ailments, they too often accept these troubles as their lot because they are women, when the ailments may be the results of disordered kidneys. Mrs. Mary V. Bunker, Milton-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., writes: "I am now on my second bottle of Foley Kidney Pills. They seem to be just what I needed." Try them. Rowley Drug Company.—Adv.

FORTUNE TELLER GAME THRIVES IN ENGLAND

BY J. W. PEGLER

(United States Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 19 (by mail).—The old crystal ball has been brought out of storage and polished up for new revelations, and the ouija board and planchette have a new coat of shellac for the clairvoyant business is booming in London.

Soldiers, sailors and women are observed to form the bulk of the "Trade." Superstition, curiosity and the sneaking hope that the truth may be foretold before they go back to the trenches or the turbulent North Sea, drive hundreds of robust boys into the mysterious, half-darkened parlors.

In Notting Hill the planchette rivals the crystal ball in popularity. The saloons are crowded and the charge is as much as the traffic will stand. Keen-eyed attendants quickly size up the customer's total net cash.

Adroit questions pump the client of useful information before he is admitted to the mysterious trance parlor where incense burns in the shadowy corners and heavy draperies fall about the couch of the "professor."

Tommy wants to know whether he will come back; perhaps he asks whether he will receive a "Blighty wound."

The fortune-teller is willing to oblige. He can foretell the soldier's fate in many ways—through the revealing crystal, the ouija or by reading the client's aura. He charges from 50 cents to five dollars for the information.

A care-worn mother asks whether her son is alive. Unwittingly she had already described the boy.

"The crystal is clouding over," says the professor. "I see a movement of marching men—mud, rain, smoke. The scene changes. I see a face—it is your son's; blue eyes, straight nose, ruddy cheeks. He is whistling as he marches to the rear. Madame, the boys is safe."

BROTHER OF CHARLES CADMAN JOINS ARMY

ALAMEDA, June 28.—Paul F. Cadman of Alameda, brother of Charles Cadman, has been made a lieutenant in the motor transport division of the armies in France. Cadman went to France with one of the American ambulance units.

"With our country at war I had to join the service," Cadman writes. "Have been made lieutenant of a section of motor transports now preparing for the front."

MAN INJURED AS AUTO COLLIDES WITH CYCLE

Accident at Corner of First and Birch Perils Several Others

Orlando Parker, a well known lather of this city, sustained serious injuries this afternoon and the lives of two others were imperiled in a collision at the corner of First and Birch streets. Parker is at the hospital in an unconscious condition, having been rushed there by a physician immediately following the collision, which occurred about 1:30 o'clock. The extent of his injuries had not been ascertained.

Parker was riding his motorcycle north on Birch street and N. Amador was driving his automobile west on First, both reaching the corner at the same instant. The motorcycle and automobile came together about the center of the intersection.

Amador veered to the right to avoid the collision and his machine went on to the curb before he could get it under control. It turned over on its side and he and his wife were pitched out into the street. Amador escaped without injury and his wife sustained only slight bruises on one hand.

The motorcycle was pushed along the street and against the curb by the automobile, Parker falling to one side. He was thrown against the pavement with such force as to render him unconscious. A superficial examination of his injuries indicated no fatal hurt.

Clarence Brown, cigarmaker of Garden Grove, was an eye-witness to the accident and says that neither machine was going faster than twelve miles an hour when they met in the center of the intersection. Amador admits that he saw Parker coming before he reached the corner and had slowed his machine down. However, neither of the men had time to bring their machines to a full stop. Amador is from Calexico and was passing through the city en route to Los Angeles.

SEEK TO FIND LOST KIN VIA WAR ROLL

SACRAMENTO, June 28.—The State Bureau of Registration is becoming rapidly transformed into a bureau for seeking lost relatives and friends. Since registration day, June 5, scores of letters have been received by the bureau from mothers seeking lost sons, from wives looking for husbands who have wandered and from girls trying to locate former suitors.

Those who have written concerning the whereabouts of lost friends and relatives believe that the registration bureau can aid in finding them through the registration cards obtained on registration day.

The bureau, however, is not in a position to give out any such information as the registration cards have not as yet been filed with the bureau and, furthermore, it is against the rules of the bureau to give out such information.

ALLEGED NATION-WIDE FRAUD SCHEME BARED

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—What is alleged to be a nation-wide scheme to defraud job-hungry men through the use of the mails is said to have been uncovered here today in the arrest of Frederick Topp and H. Ward Wright, against whom secret indictments were returned recently by the grand jury. Through two alleged bogus concerns the men are said to have advertised through the national press for agents. In each case they were said to have required a small advance fee.

SANTA ANA BOY IS ADVANCED IN THE NAVY

Ray Kaiser Promoted to Warrant Electrical Gunner
With Increased Pay

Ray Kaiser, son of S. R. Kaiser of this city, is a Santa Ana boy who is making good in the navy, and in a letter just received from him he advises his father that he has been promoted to warrant electrical gunner. Kaiser has two or three sons who are going to do their duty in the preservation of free government in this and countries across the water.

Seven Orange county boys have enlisted and been accepted in the navy since Monday of this week. Newton McKelvey, recruiting officer in charge of the local station, reports that interest in the navy is increasing among the young men of the county.

Orders received this morning by McKelvey instruct him not to receive the application of boys under 18 years of age. The ranks are being rapidly filled up and the age limit has been raised one year, boys of 17 having been accepted heretofore.

The seven young men accepted this week will leave in a few days for Goat Island, except two who enlisted as apprentice seamen and one who enlisted as yeoman. There is no room for them now at the training school. The recruits are Walter Cornell, yeoman, first class; James A. Dupont, hospital apprentice; Harry E. Meyers, hospital apprentice; Herman Peterson, apprentice seaman; Jas. Stegmeyer, apprentice seaman; Herbert R. Gibson, seaman; Arthur C. Berger, fireman, second class.

Cornell has seen service in the navy.

IN THE JUSTICE COURT

DID NOT KNOW LAW AGAINST CUTTING IN UPON HIGHWAYS

V. R. Turner's effort to convince Justice Cox that he did not know he was breaking the law when he cut in front of Deputy Sheriff Gunnett's automobile succeeded.

Turner, who is a driver of a San Diego-Los Angeles stage, said that he cuts in ahead of automobiles right along, and did not know it was against the law.

"This time it will cost you $10," said the judge, "and the next time you won't have any fine to pay. I can tell you, if they bring you before me."

Joe Wagner had a rumup at the oil wells, and George Bird swore to a complaint against him. Wagner was fined $10.

Under Sheriff Iman has sworn to a complaint charging J. E. Choate with speeding.

RUTH MORGAN, MOVIE ACTRESS, SUICIDES

VENICE, Cal., June 28.—Said to have been despondent over ill health, Ruth Morgan, well known moving picture actress, formerly Mrs. Frank Smith of Columbus, Ohio, drank lysol here last night and died at St. Catherine's hospital early today.

Ruth Morgan had been prominent in motion picture circles. Recently she had been with the New York Motion Picture Company at Culver City. To her closest friend she confided she had been in ill health and worried, presumably over separation from her husband. She lived at the Wavecrest apartments here and had been much in the company of Vic Kilburn, actor, who likewise lived at the Wavecrest. He it was who ascribed her act to despondency, having been with her just prior to her suicide.

NOT HOT ENOUGH TO DESTROY SCALE HERE SAYS AN INSPECTOR

ORANGE, June 28.—To correct any erroneous impression regarding the effect of the recent hot weather on citrus scale, E. H. Paddock, horticultural inspector for this district, made a statement denying that the scale had been eliminated.

"Statements appearing in Los Angeles papers to the effect that the heat had killed the scale, does not hold true in this locality," said Paddock. "I do not question the correctness of the assertion with regard to other districts where the temperature was 12 to 18 degrees higher than it was here for several days. That excessive heat might have destroyed the scale in those districts but there was practically no difference made in the scale here by the temperature.

"Possibly one per cent of the scale was destroyed in local orchards. The scale on the tips of branches exposed to the sun was killed but that was all, and that will not make any material difference in the amount of scale. Fumigation will be just as necessary as it was before," Paddock concluded.

The statement of Paddock was called forth by suggestions that fumigation would be unnecessary since, according to reports that were being circulated, the recent hot spell had destroyed the scale.

STEPHENS TO ADDRESS L. A. ALLIED BANQUET

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—Governor William D. Stephens will be chief orator here late today at a banquet at which representatives of all the allied countries will be present. Addresses from citizens of France, England, Russia, Italy, Japan and Belgium will be made, some of them through an interpreter. Among the notables present will be Roger Marchetti and Count Bjoro-Oyama.

PRETTY L. A. CASHIER IS ROBBED OF $40

LOS ANGELES, June 28.—A rush of early breakfasters today at a downtown cafeteria netted a bold young man, name unknown, an elaborate breakfast and $40 in currency. With his hand in his pocket threateningly, he demanded the cash in the till instead of paying his breakfast check. "If you move I'll kill you," he warned. The pretty cashier valued her life more than her employer's coin. Quick to see this, the b.y.m. sprinted away with a roll of bills.

MORE APPRAISERS FOR BERKELEY LOAN BANK
BERKELEY, June 28.—Additional appraisers are to be added to the staff of the Federal Farm Loan Bank at Berkeley and arrangements are being made to "increase the output" in loans until the bank handles $12,000,000 in twelve months.

This is the result of a request from the commissioner of farm loans at Washington who points out the necessity for additional aid to farmers through the farm loan banks.

"We shall immediately increase our output at least one-third," declared President Burrill G. White of the land bank. "We now average two new applications for charters for farm loan associations daily. No application can be made unless accompanied by requests for loans to the amount of $20,000 or more. In one instance, Humboldt county, applications for loans of $260,000 accompanied the request for a charter.

"Taking the minimum average, this bank now is passing on loans at the rate of a million dollars a month. This average would be sufficient to enable us to loan our quota within the year were it not for the fact that 90 per cent of the applications which had been prepared before the bank opened, had to be re-written.

"According to the latest reports from Washington, seventeen charters have been granted through this bank and the total number of charters granted through all the twelve banks is ninety.

"In our speeding up process, which we trust will aid in the planting of many additional acres this fall and next spring, there will be no impairment of the quality of the loans and no relaxation."

IRVINE IS READY TO GIVE RIGHT OF WAY FOR COAST ROAD

Tender Contingent Upon Assurance That Good Highway Will Be Built

James Irvine, owner of the San Joaquin ranch, is ready to give the right of way for an extension of the coast road from Balboa Palisades to Laguna whenever he is assured that a good road will be constructed along the coast, according to the statement of Supervisor Jasper Leck at the Associated Chambers of Commerce meeting last night.

The subject of the coast road was one of the interesting topics of discussion, and various speakers expressed the belief that the cost of such a road would be more than offset by the increase in the assessed valuation of property it would open up.

F. D. Cornell of the Palisades took up the matter in his address of welcome and treated it fully from every angle. "If proper transportation were provided so that people could travel along the coast and see the beauties and advantages of Newport Bay, the beautiful building sites on the bluffs along the coast, it would result in hundreds investing in property for summer homes and making improvements that would enhance the value of all property along the route," said Cornell. "The increase in the assessed value of these properties would more than compensate for the cost of building and maintaining such a road."

Jahraus Speaks
Elmer Jahraus of Laguna Beach said that on a recent Sunday at Laguna Beach there were 700 autos, and the drivers of at least 300 of them had asked if it were possible to drive up the coast to Newport Beach. "I don't believe the business men of Orange county could do anything that would be more advantageous to their own interests than get behind this project," said Jahraus. "We have a Pasadena man at Laguna who is building two residences that will represent an investment of about $75,000, and I believe that it would be only a few years before the whole coast would be lined with pretty homes if this road was opened up."

Supervisor Talbert said that during the session of the state legislature he attended a hearing of Southern California representatives with a legislative committee in efforts to secure an appropriation of half a million dollars for a paved boulevard from Ventura south to Capistrano. It developed at the hearing that there was a possibility of the national government improving the route as a military road, and it was decided to go after the government for an appropriation.

Should Make Start
"I believe we will get such an appropriation when we can show the government the vast wealth and population that is within gunshot distance of the coast. We should make the start and get the road open, and when that is done it will be easier to convince the government of the necessity of its improvement for military purposes. We are very hopeful of securing such aid."

Supervisor Jasper Leck said that he had taken the matter of a right of way from the Balboa Palisades to Laguna up with James Irvine within the past week, and he was assured by the ranch owner that a right of way would be given whenever there was assurance that a good road would be maintained. A good road did not necessarily mean a paved highway—he would be satisfied with a dirt road that would be kept in passable shape. Irvine first wanted a fence built the entire distance of his holdings fronting on the road, but this feature had been overcome and fences at certain places only would be necessary.

C. F. Krause of Anaheim said that there was no objection to the coast road by people of the interior cities—in fact they would welcome it as a relief from the present congestion on the main boulevard through the county. With such a road to travel, motorists would go one way and return the other, thus taking a portion of the traffic off the state highway.

Next Order of Business
Chairman Krause announced that the coast road would be made a special order of business at the next meeting.

J. S. Smart of Santa Ana, responding to the address of welcome by F. D. Cornell, said he believed the boulevard would be a good thing for the county and that he would boost for it. That Orange county's industrial enterprises are increasing rapidly, with extremely satisfactory developments in the past few months, was developed at the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Balboa Palisades.

Reports of new enterprises were made from the different parts of the county. T. B. Talbert, as chairman of the committee on manufacturing enterprises, reported resumption of activities at the glass factory at Newport Beach, and the starting of two new vegetable canneries—one at Huntington Beach and one on Newport mesa. C. F. Krause reported the assurance of an aeroplane factory at Anaheim; Secretary Whitaker of Anaheim reported that the Crawford marmalade plant in that city had recently enlarged, now employing fifty people; Secretary Metzgar of Santa Ana announced the opening of the Santa Ana woolen mills and the resumption of work in the old cannery building on East First street; Lew Wallace mentioned negotiations in progress for a fish cannery at Newport Beach, with an initial investment of about $75,000, and a possibility of the plant eventually representing an investment of $150,000. The erection of a new building and the operation of a tomato paste factory at Placentia was reported by A. S. Bradford of Placentia.

President Krause, reporting for Eygabroad of Anaheim, who was chairman of a committee appointed at the last meeting to investigate the working of prisoners on the county roads, stated that Eygabroad had been called East yesterday morning unexpectedly. He had received reports from San Bernardino and other places which indicated entirely satisfactory results from the working of prisoners on roads.

County Citizens to Say if Commercial Port Is to Result

With the contract signed for the Newport jetties, some of the material on the ground for preliminary construction work, the contractor under bonds to complete the jetties on or before the 13th of next January, the county harbor commission ready to report at any time, and the law requiring that the Board of Supervisors call an election within fifteen days after the filing of the report—if it is deemed advisable to call for a bond issue for the purpose—Orange county voters will in all probability be called upon to approve or reject Newport Bay as a county harbor site.

The time is near at hand—within six or seven months—when the people of the county will have to decide whether they want to improve the bay and make it a commercial harbor that will receive ocean going vessels from all parts of the world or whether they will be content to let it remain as a private project of the city of Newport Beach, with its possibilities developed to the extent only of a pleasure harbor.

That the proposition would be put squarely up to the people of the county in the near future was indicated by Lew H. Wallace, of Newport Beach, at last night's meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce at Balboa Palisades Tavern.

WORK TO START BY AUGUST 15—WALLACE
Wallace reported that the contract for the jetties had been signed, the sea wall to extend 1900 feet into the ocean and to cost $125,000. The contract is to be completed by Jan. 13, 1918. Work will start not later than the 15th of next August.

"It seems to me," said Wallace, "that the time is here for the people of Orange county to give the matter serious consideration and decide whether or not they want to make the harbor a commercial instead of a pleasure harbor."

"The city will spend $125,000 in the work, and extension of the work 200 or 300 feet beyond where we will carry it should be done at the time our contract is completed. It will cost us an average of about $60 per foot for the jetty. The cost will increase as the work extends into deeper water."

"We have made a good contract and by reserving the freight on rock we have saved about $18,000, the city being able to secure a better rate than the contractor could have gotten. We originally figured on spending $100,000 on the work, but the advance in the price of materials since the original estimates were made has added to the cost. Contractor Ledbetter is to receive $146 per ton for the first 40,000 tons of rock dumped on the jetty, and 74 cents per ton after that amount. We have a verbal agreement with him that if the jetties should be extended the latter price will prevail."

WILL GIVE 12 FEET WATER AT LOW TIDE
"The 1900 feet will give us 12 feet of water over the bar at low tide, or 7½ feet more than now. Extension of the jetties into deeper water outside would increase this depth."

"I trust the people of the county will give this matter serious consideration, and hope that a movement may be started here tonight that will result in the county taking up the work where we leave off."

T. B. Talbert, chairman of the Board of Supervisors—"I am very enthusiastic about the harbor project. I hope to see the harbor developed and business built up around the bay. It is time for our people to have their minds working—time they should wake up to the splendid opportunities offered by the bay for the development of one of the best and safest commercial harbors on the coast. When the harbor commission files its report the Board of Supervisors will have to do something within fifteen days. If the county ever takes hold of the project, the harbor will grow into a real harbor. We want to know whether the people are behind us or not. If it is a good thing for the county, I believe the people will be big enough and fair enough to vote bonds."

NEWPORT TO VOTE MORE BONDS FOR DREDGING
"The people of Newport Beach will not be through when the jetties are completed," said J. P. Greeley. "We will vote more bonds to dredge the bay. The city is unanimous on this point and we will probably vote $50,000 for this purpose. With dredging operations in progress, dredging will be continued for an indefinite time with returns from filling in new lands by dredging."

Captain Kelly, pioneer pilot at Newport, when steamers used to come into the bay and up to what is now Port Orange, recited experiences in those days, in which the mere suggestion that the bay could be made a harbor was laughed at. Education has brought about a change and education of the people to the possibilities of the bay as a commercial harbor, in his opinion would sooner or later bring hearty support from every resident of the county.

ing at Seal Beach, extended by Bert St. John, was accepted. St. John stated that the Seal Beach Chamber would like to make the event an Orange County Day, with the women especially invited to attend. He suggested that the women come down in the afternoon as guests of the ladies of the beach.

The Banquet
About seventy-five were in attendance, with a number of women gracing the occasion by their presence. The tables were prettily decorated. The banquet was served in courses, the service being first class.

PERSONAL AND SOCIAL NEWS NOTES FROM ORANGE CITY

ORANGE, June 27.—Mrs. L. J. Danner was hostess at a pleasant social affair last evening when she gave a birthday surprise party in honor of Mr. Danner at their home on East Collins avenue.

After a delightful evening, occupied with various informal pastimes the guests were served with delicious refreshments. Pink carnations were effectively used in a simple but attractive decorative scheme.

The guest list included Mr. and Mrs. E. Kirkwood and daughters, Buelah and Lillian, Mrs. Trostel, Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Medlin, A. C. Fletcher, A. L. Hesik, Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Galbraith, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Vaughn, Dr. Leon Patrick, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Malles, B. F. Scott, Mrs. Litzaw and daughter, Josephine.

Miss Lota Blythe is the guest of honor at a house party at Arch Beach which left this afternoon for a several days' outing.

Gravity is Not the Test for Gasoline

"The specific gravity test is worthless, as a test of gasoline quality."

So says the U. S. Bureau of Standards. Boiling points comprise the only real test, because easy starting, quick acceleration, maximum power, depend absolutely on boiling points. The gravity-hydrometer tells you nothing about the boiling points of gasoline.

RED CROWN

the Gasoline of Quality is straight-distilled, and thus has its boiling points in a gradually rising, unbroken chain—low boiling points for easy starting, medium boiling points for quick and smooth acceleration, high boiling points for power and mileage.

WINTERSBURG

EPWORTH SOCIAL IS SUCCESS AT WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, June 28.—The Epworth League social held at the parsonage Tuesday evening was well attended by the young people of the community, and a pleasant evening was spent. The first half-hour was given over to a guessing game, each answer being the name of a berry. Miss Agnes Gothard had the largest number written correctly. The program, an "Evening with James Whitcomb Riley," opened with a piano selection by Miss Viola Walton, followed by Otis Taylor with a biography of the poet. This was not given from manuscript, but told in a very interesting manner. Frank Draper recited "Knee Deep in June," and gave as an encore "Ponies." Mrs. E. M. Fox responded with "There Little Girl Don't Cry," and two small boy selections, one being "Was I There, Maw?" Miss Taylor, a guest from Dayton, Ohio, very graciously gave two excellent piano numbers.

Refreshments of sandwiches, cake and fruit punch were served, the Epworth League colors of red and white being noted in the refreshments and in the table decorations. A short business meeting was held, presided over by Prof. H. O. Ensign. Twelve new members were voted into the league.

The next social will be held in the church parlors, at which time the fathers and mothers will be entertained. Those present to enjoy the evening were Misses Fern Bradbury, Ina Clemons, Lizzie Gothard, Mary Crane, Ethel Isenor, Bessie Draper, Viola Walton, Vivian Cady, Cleo Ulrich, Mabel Ulrich, Frances Blaylock, Agnes Gothard, Myrtle Culver, Lorena Culver, Juanita Isenor, Ethelene Culver, Masters, Bess Taylor, Pearl Morse of Fallbrook; Mrs. E. M. Fox, Mrs. Leo Millings, Mrs. W. F. Slater, Messrs. H. O. Ensign, John Shutt, Frank Draper, James Maddux, John Clemons, Paul Prenger, Otis Taylor, Albert Maddux, Wallace, Jacob Walton, Walter Winters, Masters, and Rev. and Mrs. O. N. Oleson.

A few drops applied directly upon a tender, aching corn should relieve the soreness instantly, and soon the entire corn, root and all, can be lifted out with the fingers without pain.

This new way to rid one's feet of corns was introduced by a Cincinnati man, who says that while freezone is sticky it dries in a moment, and seems to simply shrivel up the corn without inflaming or ever irritating the surrounding tissues.

bean blossoms to feed upon. Soon after he had the hives established and had driven away, little Donald, the youngest child of Prof. and Mrs. H. O. Ensign, set out to investigate the queer looking objects. He took the top off of one hive, and lifted out three frames of comb. By that time, the bees, none too friendly from having been so recently disturbed, began to resent the intrusion and stung the child over and over again. His cries brought his father running and then the bees had two victims in place of one. It is not thought the baby will trouble the hives again, nor the two older children, who were fearful witnesses of the little fellow's suffering.

Word has been received from Mr. and Mrs. Samuel T. Burgess, who recently moved to Nash, Okla., that the weather is very hot and disagreeable, and not entirely to their liking. He has not been well any of the time since leaving California. They have moved into their own house, but are not exactly satisfied. California has a way of making people think other states are not quite right and when it comes to climate, where can you find a better combination of sea breeze and sunshine than right here in Wintersburg?

The leather truck took a jolly party to the beach Monday night to fish for grunion. Those who enjoyed the sport were Mr. and Mrs. Reuther, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Letson, James Letson, Marion McGuire, Neal Bradbury, McGuire and John Clemens. Later they were joined by W. H. Phillips and family.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Slater and family made a trip to Los Angeles Monday, and drove on out to the San Fernando valley. The people in the valley have been experiencing some very warm days, but the fruit and crops have not suffered much. Horace Moore was not able to endure the hot weather as well as his wife and children.

Mrs. E. G. Curtis and two children, Virgil and Robert, of Delmar, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Chris Nelson and family. The Nelsons drove to Delhi Monday evening to meet them, and on Tuesday took a trip to San Fernando to stay a few days. Mrs. Curtis' husband is a brother of Mrs. Nelson.

Mr. and Mrs. B. R. Gerhart and two sons, of Hemet, are house guests for the week of Mrs. Elizabeth Moore and Mr. and Mrs. George Gerhart, Thursday George Gerhart, B. R. Gerhart and Dr. Charles Promenschenko drove to Redondo Beach to visit Earl Gerhart, son of B. R. Friday the guests were taken on a fishing trip.

Wintersburg people were in line with the other communities in their generous response to the call for Red Cross funds. E. R. Bradbury, George W. Moore and C. G. Andrews report a total of $445.

Mrs. E. G. Thompson of Clovis, Cal., was the guest of Mrs. A. H. Moore for a few days and favored the congregation of the Methodist church Sunday morning with a solo.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Baker of San Fernando visited Chris Nelson and family Sunday. After dinner the two families drove over to Seal Beach.

George Gerhart had a crew of twelve men begin work on his ranch Monday morning hoeing beans.

Mrs. Barton is having the interior of her bungalow home entirely renewed with varnish, paint and kalsomine. L. E. Rush is the man behind the brush.

Miss Jennie Clay, Ralph Clay and Andy Maginson, of Los Angeles, visited at W. F. Slater's Friday and Saturday. Mrs. Slater and the guests went on a fishing trip.

The Methodist parsonages and doubtless many other homes throughout Southern California were saddened by the death of Chaplain Orville J. Nave, a most remarkable man, a brother beloved, who was struck by a street car in Los Angeles Saturday night and died the following evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Letson and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hathaway motored to Covina Sunday to visit the latter's brother, Beuben Meredith, and sister, Mrs. Mary Harris.

Earl Farrar returned Monday evening from Little Bear valley, leaving Mrs. Farrar and the children in camp with the rest of the party. He was accompanied from Orange by Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Farrar, who visited at B. A. Farrar's until Tuesday.

Mrs. Claude Graham, who has been suffering from an attack of malarial fever, is convalescing at the J. J. Graham home, having been brought down from Puente over a week ago.

Flag day and Red Cross day will be celebrated in the Sunday school next Sunday. The schools of all the Methodist churches are making a special contribution to the Red Cross fund, which it is hoped will be very large and it will be, if each one does his "bit." So remember especially the collection next Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Ray Moore and two younger children, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Buehler and family motored to Orange County Park Sunday afternoon.

Miss Bess Taylor of Dayton, Ohio, who has been visiting at the Robert Masters home with her friends, Miss Masters and Mrs. Leo Millings, went to Los Angeles Wednesday. Miss Taylor is busy "seeing California," having come from the East about a month ago. She plans to remain in and around Los Angeles about a month longer.

Somers Parsons of Los Angeles came Tuesday evening for a visit with his niece, Mrs. E. M. Fox, and family.

Mrs. S. A. Overholzer and baby of Lordsburg visited her sisters, Mrs. E. M. Fox and Mrs. Wardell for several days and accompanied them for an over-Sunday camping trip to San Juan Capistrano.

Mrs. Herbert Collins, who has been visiting her mother, Mrs. A. H. Moore, for the past month, expected to start on her homeward trip Tuesday, but the date of her going has been postponed indefinitely as little Dorothy Virginia has the measles.

Rev. and Mrs. Robert J. Coyne of Huntington Beach were luncheon guests Tuesday of Rev. and Mrs. O. N. Oleson.

Mrs. E. M. Fox, Carlita Dearford and Bonelyn Fox motored to Garden Grove Friday to visit Mr. and Mrs. Hoff, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Fox.

John Murdy has work for the summer on the W. J. Edwards ranch.

Mrs. A. Ulrich and daughter Zelma are spending a week with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ulrich and daughters.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Graham of Punete were at the home of their relatives here over Sunday.

Eugene Franger is in Los Angeles this week.

Lower Tire Cost Than Ever—NOW

For, in the old days, tires not only cost motorists more per tire, but were also so far inferior to the present product, that the final cost—the cost per mile—was from 50 to 100 or more per cent. higher than you pay now.

United States Tires—the 'Royal Cord', the 'Nobby', the 'Chain', the 'Usco' and the 'Plain',

- one for every need of price and use,
- produced by the largest rubber manufacturer in the world,
- produced by the most experienced tire manufacturer in the world,
- produced by a time-tried, exclusive, patented, vulcanizing process,
- produced of only the most carefully selected materials,
- have so far eclipsed every other make of tire that
- United States Tires are famous for their mileage-giving qualities—their low cost per mile.

The proof?—the consistent and persistent tremendous sales increases of United States Tires.

Hysteria Wave Has Flattened— Prosperity Sweeping Country

Our entrance into the war brought about a somewhat frantic and hysterical economy wave. A few "Old Timers," wholly uninformed, insisted on tightening their purse-strings and retrenching in their expenditures. For a time this unnecessary certainty affected the normal trend of business. Canada suffered a similar experience in the early stages of the war. Today Canada's commercial and industrial conditions are the most prosperous in its history.

Never So Rich

Our country is rich—abnormally rich. Our industries are flourishing. People have money to spend and are spending it. Anyone who wants employment can find work.

The large oversubscription to the war loan has stimulated business greatly. Every factory, every mill, every farm, every railroad is now being pushed and kept busy to its maximum capacity and yield. Our own government is in the market as the largest buyer the world has ever known, and is spending practically every dollar of its money in our own country.

California

It has been announced that the government will spend something like 10 millions as a starter in the state of California. Doesn't this spell increased prosperity? But that isn't nearly all:

Fifteen of the larger cities on the Pacific Coast report a 100% increase in building activity over last year. This in spite of the high cost of materials.

Similar expansion is indicated in other cities, where the total outlays show heavy gains over last year. While building operations are relatively costly, the increased expense has been more than justified in many instances by the increased earning power of great industrial properties. Factory extensions throughout the United States have been undertaken at a total cost for labor and material that largely exceeds such expenditures in normal times. This work would probably show still greater expansion were it possible to obtain an adequate force of skilled laborers.

Aside from the expenditures by industrial plants there has been a general building movement in towns and cities where wage-earners have been able to set aside more money than usual. This movement reflects a diffusion of wealth that is highly encouraging.

Official returns show that the country is doing a phenomenal business. Fifty cities show total bank clearings for January in excess of any previous month. The increase reported by more than 170 leading cities showed a gain of something more than 26 per cent over last year. A suggestive sign of the times was the relatively small number of insolvencies reported in January. These represented the smallest total indebtedness reported in the opening month of any of the last seven years.

Crops

With the heavy demand for all California products, prices are soaring. Pink beans selling a year ago at 6c to 6½c are today quoted at 10c. Lima beans are double the prices then prevailing. Many farmers have planted all available land to beans.

Dried fruits are selling on a much higher basis. Trees were never in better condition. No foreign shipments of dried fruits are being made, which means higher prices to local growers.

Conditions in the oil industry remain much the same, producers being unable to keep up with the consumption.

All citrus fruit is on the climb. Prices on lemons and oranges are strong and going stronger. The east is buying California products as it never has before. Every local packing house testifies to this. Buyers are paying two and three cents a pound on the trees.

Keep It Going

You can share in this prosperity by living as you have always lived in times of prosperity. Buy what you want, take advantage of investment opportunities, give and spend freely. This will keep money in free circulation and extend prosperity to every nook and corner.

The more you spend the more you will have to spend. Free circulation of money always increases prosperity.

Business is going as usual. Keep it going throughout the war. In this way our country will hardly feel the war.
